DRAGON

VOLUME LVI

*W*ith the avowed purpose of recording the student year at Warren Area High School, the 1963 DRAGON has endeavored to present a picture of school life in which each may feel himself included as a participant in the events taking place Around W. A. H. S. in One Hundred Eighty-five Days.

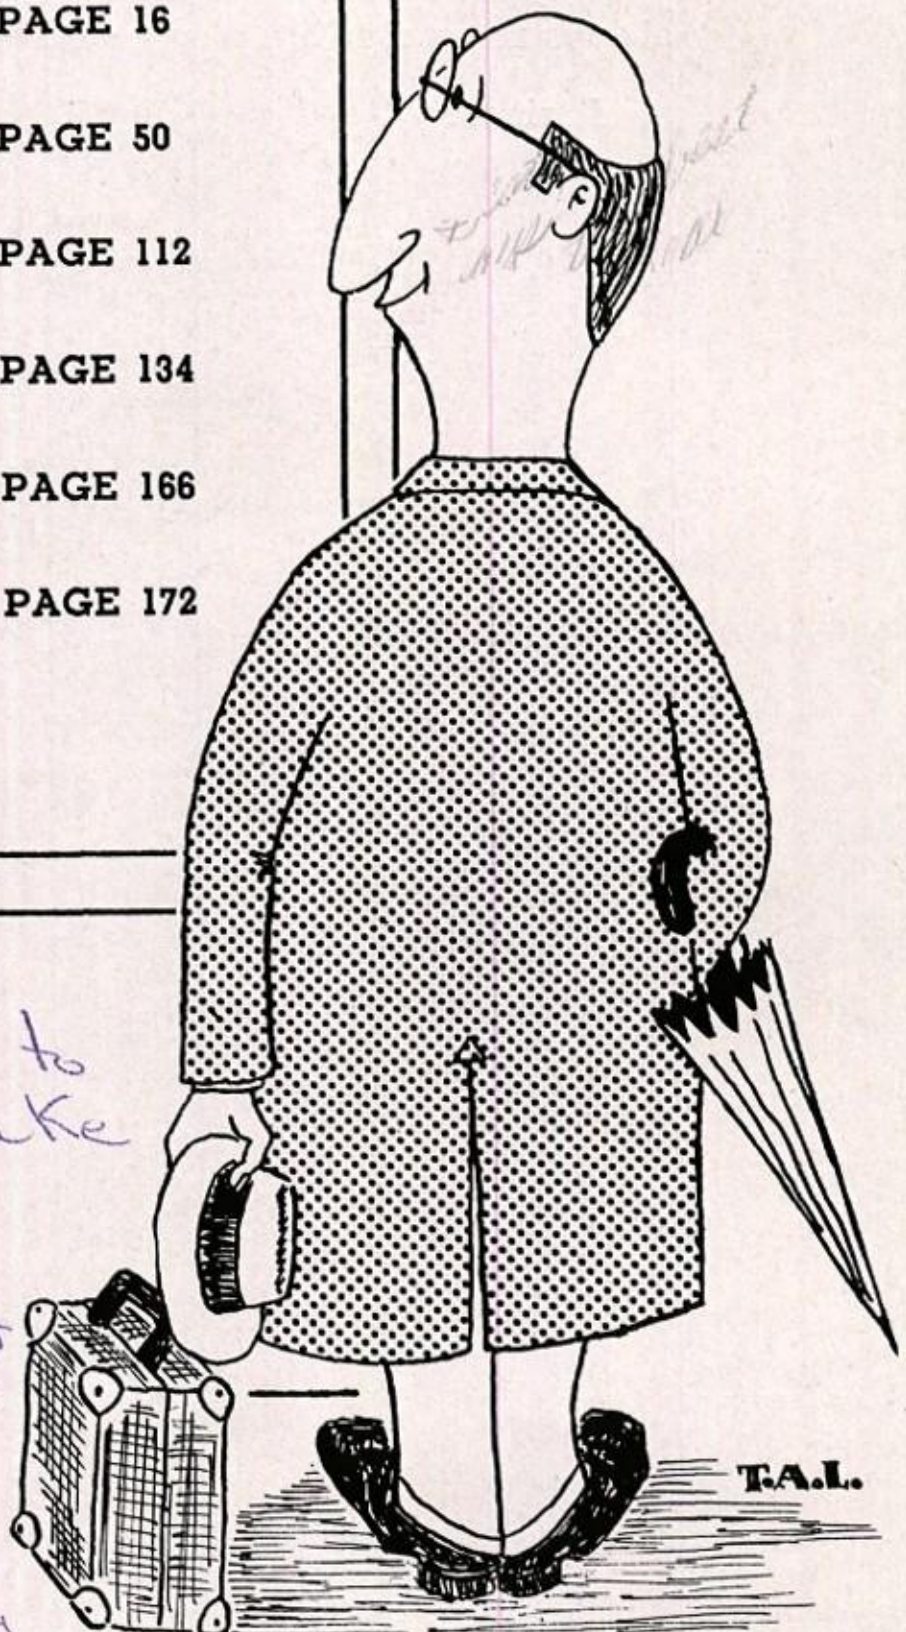

The path of a student during a school year resembles a journey. As the mileage increases, the student's horizon broadens. In the same manner that a passenger notes the changing scenery, the student enlarges his storehouse of memories.

As time goes on, memories will become dim. It is the sincere hope of the 1963 DRAGON Staff that through the years, as each traveler turns the pages of this memory book, he may relive those good old days in W. A. H. S.

Dedication

To Mr. Robert Fey, in appreciation of his numerous contributions to our school, we, the Class of 1963, dedicate this fifty-sixth edition of the DRAGON. Through his efforts, many students have gained a new insight in the field of American history. The Advanced Placement program recently established at Warren Area High School has received enthusiastic support from Mr. Fey, who has helped to promote and to formulate this new concept. As advisor to the Student Council, Mr. Fey's efforts and advice have aided the many successful programs of this student group. We shall always remember Mr. Fey as a dynamic teacher, a wise counselor, and a good friend.

Jim,
Best of luck in everything you do, with all the success and happiness in the world. Have a riot this summer and take it easy on the girls.

Curriculum

In the large group assembled for the tour Around W. A. H. S. in One Hundred Eighty-five Days, various types of personalities were noticeable. Well-rounded, mature, and stable individuals possessed multiple traits and capabilities. The curriculum, which contained world-wide interests, tended to bring out in this varied group self-expression, creativeness, and co-operation, and helped them to appreciate and understand their future responsibilities. Directed toward moral, physical, and intellectual development, the curriculum attempted to prepare students to take their places in the world.

These industrious assistants, Linda Gustafson, Sandra Ercolani, Joyce Co'e, Susan Larson, Clara McDannell, Laura Kirby, Margaret McClelland, Sandra Spencer, Linda Guiffre, and Pamela Snyder, contributed to the efficiency of the library service.

The Library offered trip information.

The library assumed a very important position in the life of Warren Area High School. Rectangular in shape, the main room afforded seating space for ninety people at long, comfortable, solid cherry tables with pastel yellow tops. An adjoining room equipped with shelves for newspapers and magazines and with plenty of table space served not only as a current reading room but also for conferences. The librarian also had a work room and an office. Through the year many attractive and educational displays enlivened the bulletin boards of the library and informed students of special interests, modern events, and achievements.

With a display of over 6000 volumes of fiction and non-fiction the library provided an adequate collection of books and reading material. Encyclopedias, reference books, science, biography, travel, fiction, and poetry were available for research, pleasure, and required reading.

Proving the importance of the library, a large number of students availed themselves of its advantages every period of the day. Mrs. Donaldson and Mrs. Brunke, librarians, were most helpful, and they enthusiastically offered their expert services in supplying desired books and in teaching the use of numerous reference books and files.

Mrs. Donaldson efficiently helped students to find reference materials.

Guidance

The Guidance Office mapped the route.

Problems? Everyone experienced them from sophomore year through the senior year. Day-by-day problems of the typical high school student, varying between the serious and those less perplexing, demanded constant accessibility to competent guidance counsel.

Giving freely of their time for consultation, Miss Steele and Mr. Carr played an important and vital role in the lives of Warren students. Desiring information on future careers, students always found a sympathetic and helpful audience. Sophomores and juniors received advice about necessary courses in high school, and inquiring seniors took advantage of advice pertaining to a college education, scholarship opportunities, and various careers.

Readily available in the guidance office were catalogues, scholarship programs, and bulletins with information concerning the various vocations and colleges which students might enter upon graduation from high school.

At the request of the Guidance Department, college representatives contributed additional information to prospective students.

Administration of various aptitude and achievement tests included Kuder Preference Tests, California Tests, and Scholastic Achievement Tests. The guidance office recorded results and kept them on file for reference together with a complete record of each student.

Mary Martin, a college-bound junior, sought advice from Mr. Carr in making her selection.

Mary Martin, Connie Schearer, Carol Waldeck, Jean Benze, and Judy Gardner served as guidance office workers.

English provided communication.

English, an essential subject for everyone, was a requirement for all students. This year the English department continued the Honors Course, introduced last year for sophomores and juniors who were especially proficient in English. Endeavoring to master three years' work in two years, these students prepared for the senior Advanced Placement Course. Sophomores not in the Honors Course stressed grammar, composition, and selections from world literature with special emphasis on "Julius Caesar," by Shakespeare. Junior classes continued the study of grammar and vocabulary and concentrated on composition and American literature with its accompanying history and its development. The seniors spent much time on grammar and the works of important writers of English literature. "Macbeth" was an enjoyable requirement. College-bound seniors stressed the writing of original themes and compositions besides additional reading assignments.

Speech was an elective. Students learned the fundamentals of speechmaking with emphasis on vocabulary, pronunciation, voice, and poise. Expressing themselves in pantomimes, students cultivated ease and naturalness. Morning announcements for home rooms enabled students to practice proper expression, diction, and poise. More advanced work dealt with organizing, preparing, and giving speeches and with storytelling.

The dramatic class emphasized the various phases of the drama. The class stressed the study of acting techniques, make-up, costuming, set design, and types of plays. In dramatic reading and monologues the class developed skill in characterization.

German I students enjoyed singing songs of Germany to the accompaniment of Mr. Green's guitar.

By means of maps and news publications, second year German students, Linda Ahlgren and John Anderson, traced the course of current events as they happened in Germany.

Second-year Latin students listened to a recording of important sections of Book One of Caesar's "Gallic Wars."

With the use of records and tape recorders in the language laboratory, students not only heard others speak a particular language, but they also recorded their own voices for comparison and improvement.

German was a popular language among Warren Area students. Some classes practiced oral conversation and reading, often supplementing it with singing or listening to records. Other classes concentrated on basic grammar. Intermediate German offered a study of advanced grammar and German literature. Advanced German devoted much time to the German literature, culture, political geography, and linguistics.

Classes beginning the Russian language learned to read and write fluently, pursued the fundamentals of grammar, and enjoyed excerpts from Russian literature. The advanced classes concentrated more fully on grammar and literature and engaged in conversation with more fluency. The students gained a greater knowledge of the history, life, and customs of the Russian people under Communist rule.

Emphasizing conversation and original themes in Spanish, students gained a basic knowledge of that colorful Romance language and learned much about the customs and habits of the world's Spanish speaking peoples.

The course for French classes embraced the study of fundamental grammar. Short stories from French literature revealed the French culture and customs.

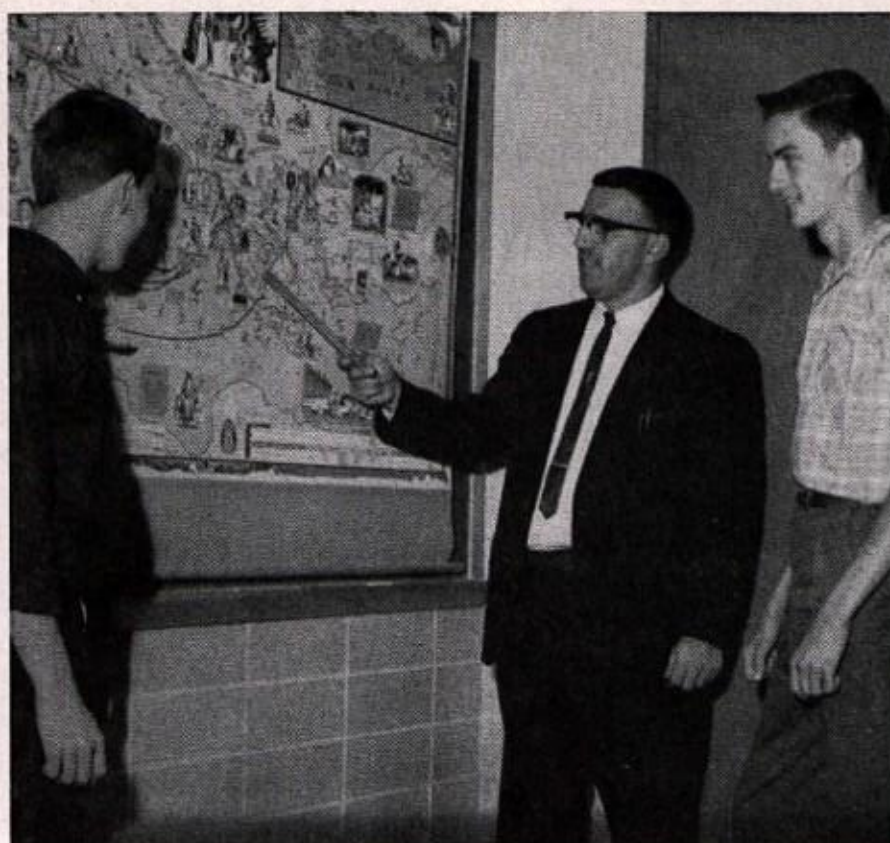

While second-year Latin students continued the study of grammar and Caesar's "Gallic Wars," third-year and fourth-year students mastered Cicero's "Orations."

Mr. Stachowiak's third-year Latin students observed a chart tracing the evolution of languages.

American History

A great statesman once said, "The American public school is the principal training ground for informed American citizenship; what is taught in the classroom today shapes the sort of country we shall have decades hence." What has been done in the past can be a lesson or an example for the present.

Social studies told to the sophomores the story of how the world as a whole, with its many peoples, environments, civilizations, religions, and nations, came to be what it is. International events of the present day proved to be valuable discussion subjects.

American history for juniors traced the growth of democracy from Colonial days to the present and emphasized the influence of social, cultural, geographical, and economic developments of this country.

Seniors had a choice of two courses in social studies.

Problems of democracy discussed American problems, labor, education, farming, and other vital subjects. The classes took an active interest in the November elections. Economics and sociology, a second course available to seniors, concentrated on community living, governments, and the business economy of the United States. Discussions of budgets, wages, taxes, crime, juvenile delinquency, education, labor problems, stocks, and bonds made students aware of the part they could play in the search for better solutions of social problems.

Advanced placement history, a new social studies course in Warren Area High School, made college level work available to selected juniors and seniors. Probing more deeply into many historical situations and problems brought a deeper appreciation of our democracy to these college-bound students.

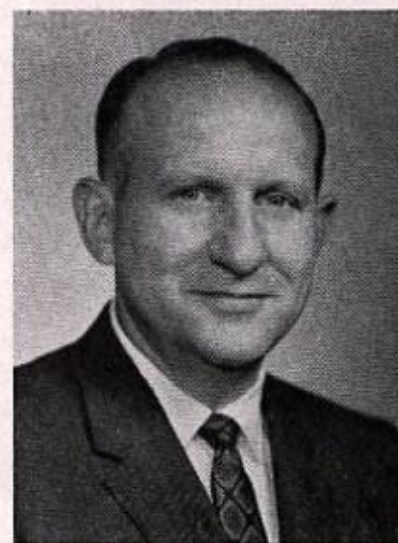

SOCIAL STUDIES provided historical background.

Interested in increasing their knowledge of current world crises, Mr. Reddecliff's American history students held informative round-table discussions.

The conservation course was a one-semester subject offered as an elective to seniors. It gave one-half credit toward graduation.

Students taking the conservation course this year learned much about the preservation of America's natural resources and wildlife. The course taught students about modern methods of land cultivation as well as methods of forest fire-fighting and reforestation.

Field trips to surrounding areas along with speeches by local forestry and conservation experts stimulated interest in the class.

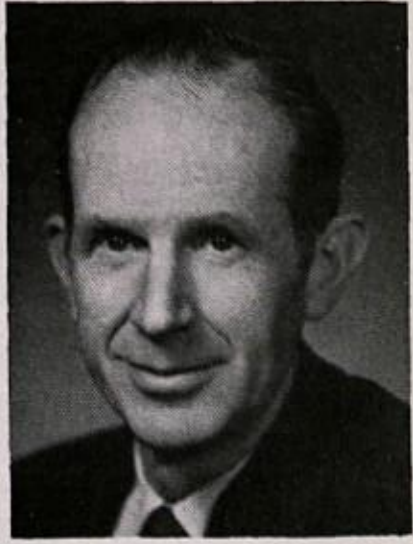

By action of the School Board, the class in conservation had the opportunity to utilize and develop for recreational purpose an unobligated area of sixty-seven acres located above the school building.

Tourists enjoyed scientific explorations.

Warren Area High School offered a variety of science courses: physics, chemistry, general science, microbiology, anatomy, health, and biology.

Chemistry and physics were available for juniors and seniors and opened the way for more detailed study and vocational levels. Extra laboratory periods allowed students to explore the mysteries of the chemical and physical world. Chemistry students concentrated on the uses and properties of the common elements; at the same time physicists coped with energy, work, gas, motion, heat, and electricity.

Biology students explored the intriguing world of nature with the basic concepts of plant and animal life from the simplest to more complex forms. Later in the year, attention centered on the higher forms of living organisms, such as fishes, reptiles, and large mammals and plants. Experimentation with actual specimens and many available exhibits gave students a better understanding of the subject.

Girls aspiring to be nurses studied microbiology for one semester and then pursued the study of anatomy for another semester. The former science dealt with microorganisms, and the latter was a detailed study of basic terminology useful in more advanced work.

Sophomores began with a required course in health, which offered basic information concerning proper health practices, body structure, and diseases of the body.

With the assistance of visual aids, biology students learned the internal structure of the earthworm.

A life-sized reproduction of the skeletal system enabled anatomy students of Mr. Spackman's class, Barbara Towne and Victoria Hammerbeck, to associate technological names with the actual bones.

The administration of Warren Area High School anticipated the need for higher mathematics in secondary education and this year provided facilities for teaching courses including unified geometry, trigonometry, and college preparatory mathematics. Algebra I and II served as the basis of the higher mathematics program. In these courses the students learned the essentials of sets, linear and quadratic equations, determinants, graphing, and related algebraic functions.

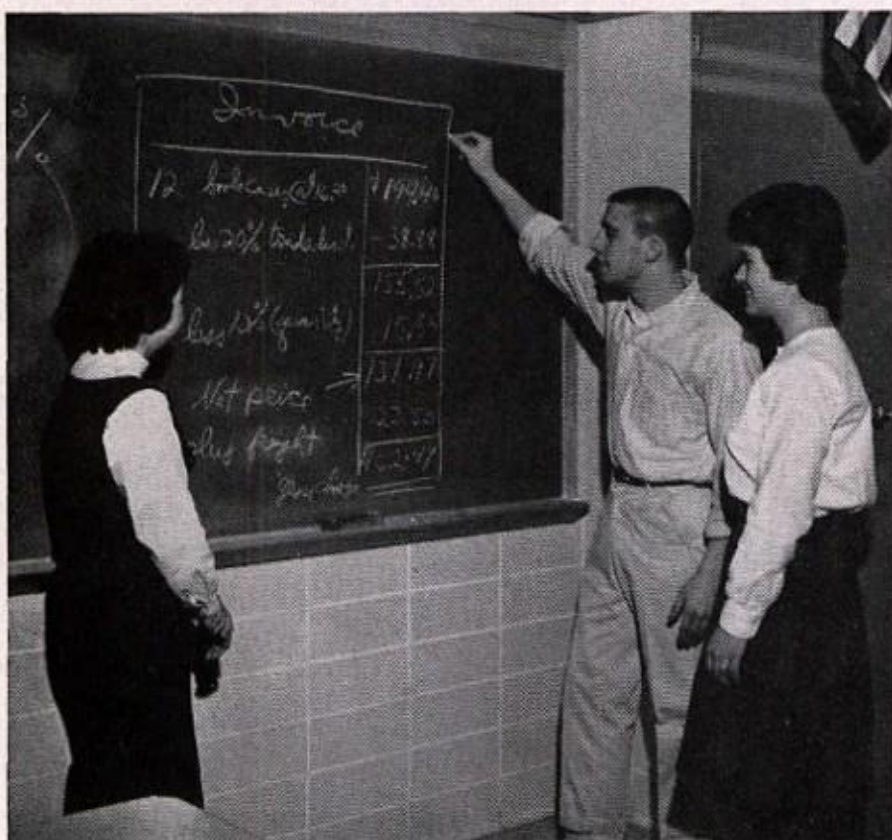

A new addition to the curriculum this year was unified geometry. To form the unified geometry, the former plane geometry course absorbed the obsolete solid geometry course. The new course presented a combination of solid geometry and Euclidean geometry. The solid geometry phase consisted of the study of basic solid figures. The geometry students proved many theorems pertinent to plane geometric figures.

This year a returning teacher, Mr. Sampson, took charge of all the trigonometry classes. All students memorized the basic trigonometric functions, inverses, and identities. Also included in the course of study were spherical triangles, logarithms, interpolations, and practical problems.

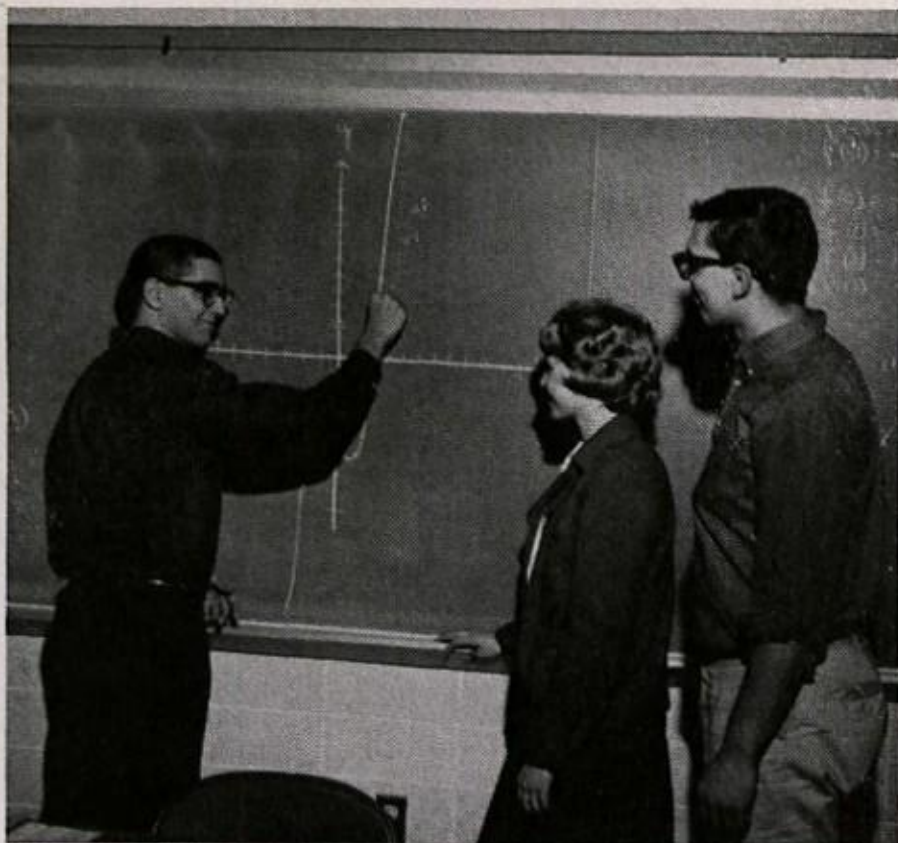

Students preparing for careers in engineering and mathematics took college preparatory mathematics. The course, also taught by Mr. Sampson, consisted of modern mathematics, advanced algebra, functions, analytic geometry, matrices, and calculus.

Robert Wick enumerated the fine points of invoice-making for Rita Harrison and Lee Ritchie.

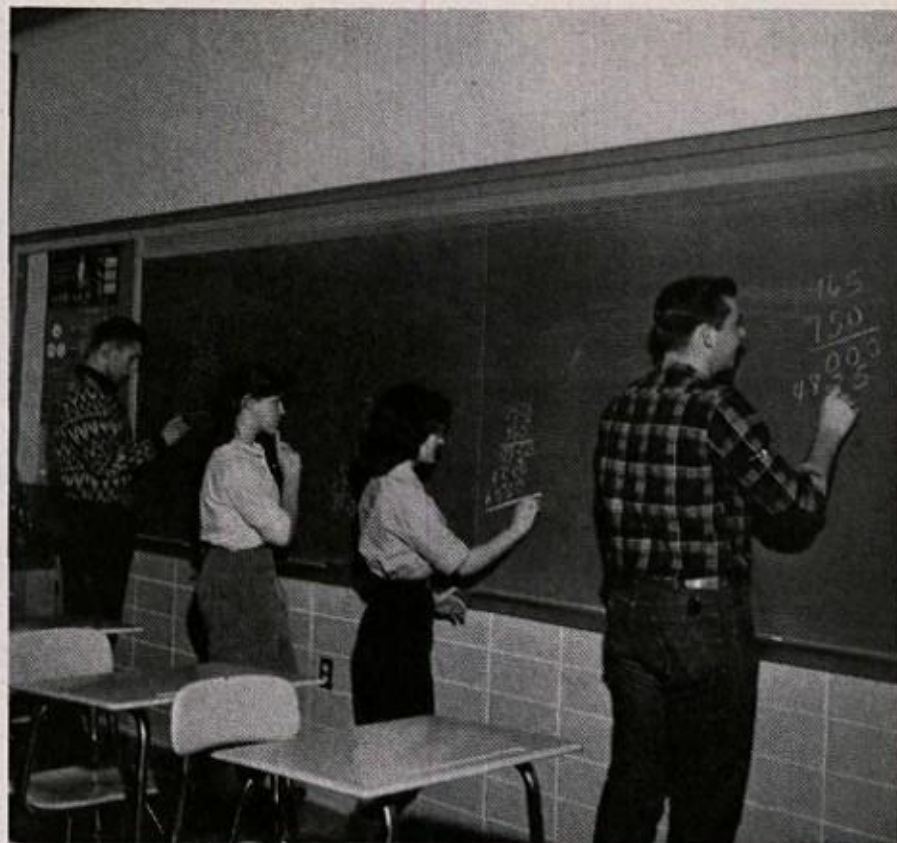

Mr. Jewell demonstrated the locus of points of a linear equation to his algebra students.

Daniel Greco demonstrated to Susan Slick and Thomas Hessley the correct method of working slope problems in linear geometry.

General math students exhibited their accuracy and ability in solving practical problems.

Math solved tourists' numerical calculations.

In general mathematics and in business mathematics, students learned practical applications of elementary mathematics to every day life and business situations. The general mathematics courses provided a valuable help to non-academic students who were not interested in higher mathematics. Besides providing a needed credit for non-academic students, general mathematics provided a basis for the future of many students.

Likewise, business mathematics was essential for the business students. This course offered practical business situations such as procedures for payroll, interest, computation, depreciation allowances, comparative analysis of values, time study, data processing and other financial calculations.

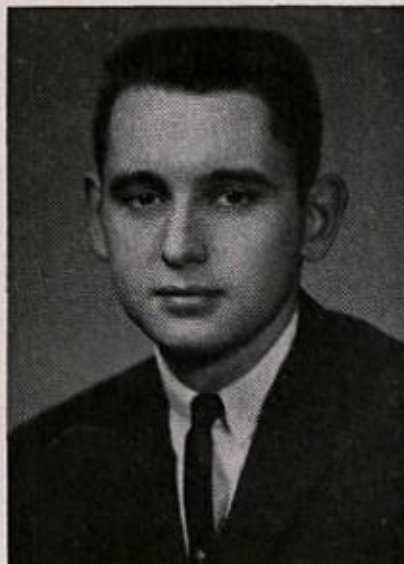

Shop mathematics was the mathematical basis for all students planning to enter the industrial arts program. Students learned the fundamental calculations necessary to set up and operate the machines in the shops.

COMMERCIAL COURSES pointed

Focusing attention on the future, students found excellent educational opportunities in the business department. Training in typing, bookkeeping, business mathematics, secretarial training, sales, office machines, and shorthand prepared prospective employees for their chosen careers.

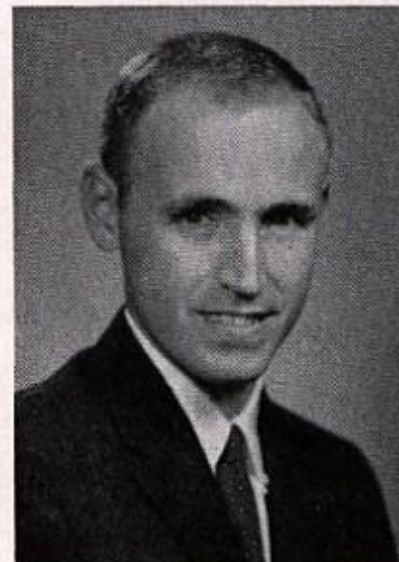

All academic and business students in typing classes learned the various techniques and skills necessary to become efficient typists. Beginning with skill-building drills and advancing to simple sentences, advanced classes practiced typing important business forms.

Dealing with such areas as banking services and insurance needs, the course in general business gave the students a basic training in a variety of problems relating to the business world.

Mastery of the basic principles of shorthand was a primary aim of first-year students. Gradually they advanced to more complicated words and letters. Advanced students continued practicing the basic facets of shorthand and developed speed and accuracy in taking dictation. Spelling and punctuation occupied the attention of students as an important aid in correctly transcribing notes in dictation and in composing letters.

Secretaries-to-be gained speed and accuracy from many long hours of practice.

the way to the business world.

Salesmanship, which comprised the study of salesmanship procedures, customers, merchandising, and selling techniques, was of practical value to every student, regardless of his choice of future career.

Bookkeeping introduced the students to the keeping of records, the theory of debit and credit, and the use of special journals.

Business mathematics reviewed the fundamental processes and emphasized speed and accuracy. Earnings, spending, saving, and investing were some of the practical phases which made this course useful to everyone.

In business law the students discovered the nature of law and the agencies and procedures for its enforcement in the business world.

Office practice gave a thorough knowledge of the operation of a modern business office. Spending much time in practice and simulated assignments, students became skilled in the operation of calculators, adding machines, electric typewriters, and transcribing machines.

Distributive Education

Distributive Education combined theory with practice.

Under the program of distributive education twenty-nine seniors earned while they learned. This course included instruction and practical application in the retail sale of goods and other services to consumers. Salesmanship and operation of retail outlets formed the core of study. Other phases of the course emphasized correctness in applying for jobs, stockkeeping, retail mathematics, merchandising, advertising, and display.

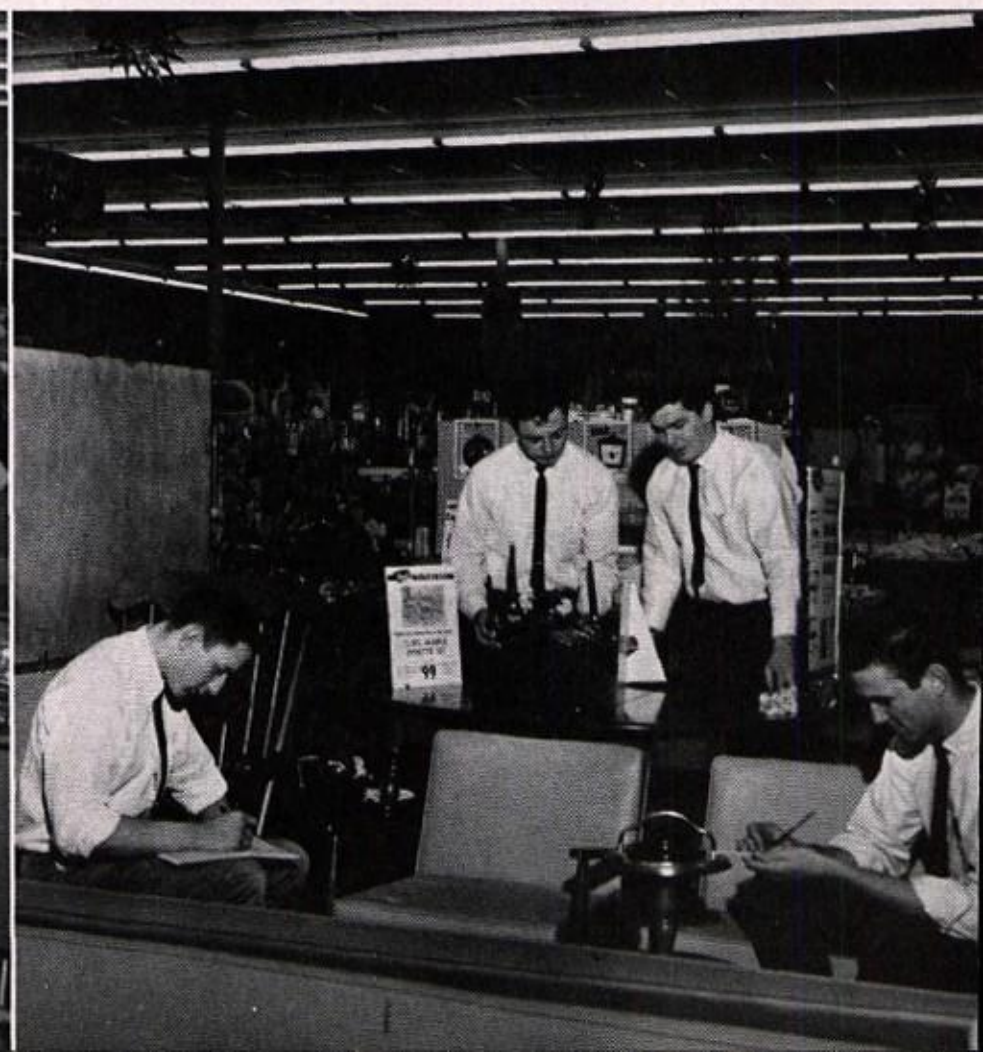

This program called for class participation during the morning, practical work from one o'clock to six o'clock on school days, and a full day's work on Saturday. Earning an average of one dollar per hour, each teen-ager spent a minimum of fifteen hours per week on the job. Employers rated regularly these students on appearance, attendance, ability to follow instructions, enthusiasm, and cooperation.

Members of the distributive education class were responsible for the decoration of the display case in room 200. The student body enjoyed and appreciated the many attractive arrangements and seasonable displays created by Mr. Warren Miller and his class, who deserved much credit for their splendid accomplishments.

Mr. Cuffney, manager (second from left), explained the selling points of lamps to Karen Hammerbeck, David Straight, Barry Simon, Linda Lundberg, Richard Himes, Lawrence Bielawski, and Oscar Covell.

Mr. Murphy, assistant manager, pointed out to Nancy Chiodo, Linda Dunn, Diane Tannler, and Carol Engel the important qualities of the new merchandise on display at Grant's.

Pat Kent, William Quackenbush, and Diane Barone operated the new cash registers as Mr. Cuffney, manager of Grant's store and Mr. Murphy, assistant manager, looked on.

Good singing and hard work established a good reputation for the Boys' and the Girls' Glee Clubs. Enjoyment of singing and the desire for greater appreciation of choral music brought these groups together for daily rehearsals.

"Christmas Is Coming," a cantata sung by the combined Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs in the Christmas Festival of Music, proved very enjoyable to their audiences. Four-part and six-part harmony with narration at numerous intervals made this selection difficult to perform but brought much praise to the singers.

This course, often considered a stepping stone to the A Cappella Choir, emphasized the fundamentals of choral music.

The Choirs supplied a musical atmosphere.

Members of the A Cappella Choir won great distinction at their first public appearance this fall. With Mr. Fowler, their director, they sang at the Pennsylvania State Music Teachers' Association in Harrisburg in November. This trip offered both recreational and educational opportunities as the members of the group were able to visit the Capital buildings and tour the city.

The Christmas Festival of Music presented selections by the A Cappella Choir, the Boys' Choir, the Girls' Choir, and the High School Orchestra. Special numbers sung by the A Cappella Choir included "Carol of the Bells" by Wilhousky, "When De Stars Shine" by Cain, and "Glory to God in the Highest" by Thompson. In the "Song of Mary" by Krantz, Susanne Wrhen appeared as soloist. In an assembly the day before Christmas vacation the same program created a holiday mood among the student body. That afternoon the musical groups entertained Warren State Hospital patients.

"Ballad for Americans," a cantata, formed the core of the Winter Concert.

At the Northwestern Pennsylvania District Concert in Edinboro eight members of the A Cappella Choir represented Warren Area High School. Murray Foreman, Susan Walls, Penelope Abel, Victoria Hammerbeck, William Eldridge, Jon Marti, John Henry, Susanne Wrhen, and Michael Rice won this honor and participated in the concert featuring one hundred seventy-five voices chosen from twenty-eight different schools in the state.

The Spring Concert offered sacred, popular, and folk songs in a special stage setting. Participation in the Baccalaureate Service closed a year of fun and hard work shared by choir members.

Under the field direction of James Senger, drum major, the marching band presented many colorful precision drills to cheer the spirits of Warren fans. Supplementing the playing members, a lively color guard and peppy majorettes added extra attractions to every show.

After football season the band participated in the Christmas parade and then entered into several weeks of strenuous practice for concert season. As a relief from this preparation, members held a delicious tureen dinner in the cafeteria on December eighth, followed by an enjoyable evening of dancing and chatting in the exhibition room.

The annual winter appearance proved the band to be an excellent playing group. On March seventh, eighth, and ninth Suellyn Gebhardt, Barbara Brindis, Judith North, and James Senger performed in District Band at Union City. With great anticipation and confidence the band awaited the concert trip to Erie on April twenty-fifth, which proved to be a huge success. Ending the year on a lively note, the band marched in the Memorial Day parade and played a delightful outdoor concert.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Summers, started their year's activities with a combined orchestra and glee club assembly on October 26.

The Christmas Festival Concert in December combined the talents of the orchestra with the band and the A Capella Choir to present an assorted program of Christmas music. The following week, the combined groups gave an assembly, which the orchestra highlighted by playing "Sleigh Ride," "Symphony of the Bells," and "Songs of Christmas."

Eight members of the orchestra later had the privilege and the honor of attending the three-day District Orchestra at McDowell High School in Erie. This group included Linda Werner, Julia Barhight, Wendy Laurich, Rita Hessley, John Lindberg, Jean Benze, Curtis Carlson, and Lynda Ahlgren. Dr. William Willett of Fredonia, New York, conducted the orchestra of over one hundred students assembled from northwestern Pennsylvania.

The orchestra officers this year were Kristi Hanson and James Senger, co-presidents; Jon Marti, treasurer; and Linda Werner, secretary.

The ORCHESTRA lent a classical note.

Home Economics
Future Homemakers of America

Ninety girls of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes enrolled in the practical course of home economics. In the pleasant surroundings of the home economics department, the girls learned the fundamentals of modern homemaking and home management. They received instruction in the basic skills of food preparation, sewing, knitting, and crocheting. The girls learned how to plan, prepare, and serve appetizing and well-balanced meals. The classes prepared many different recipes of food which they served to their classmates. They studied the use of patterns and how to cut and put together pretty articles of clothing.

A special pre-Christmas project was gift wrapping. Each girl wrapped one gift in an original manner and displayed it to the class.

Besides developing culinary and seamstress skills, other phases for consideration included family living, home decorating, grooming, caring for children, budgeting, and consumer buying. Projects carried on at home and in school presented a better understanding of the techniques of modern home management and good experience in the practical application of these skills.

Tourists took home new domestic skills.

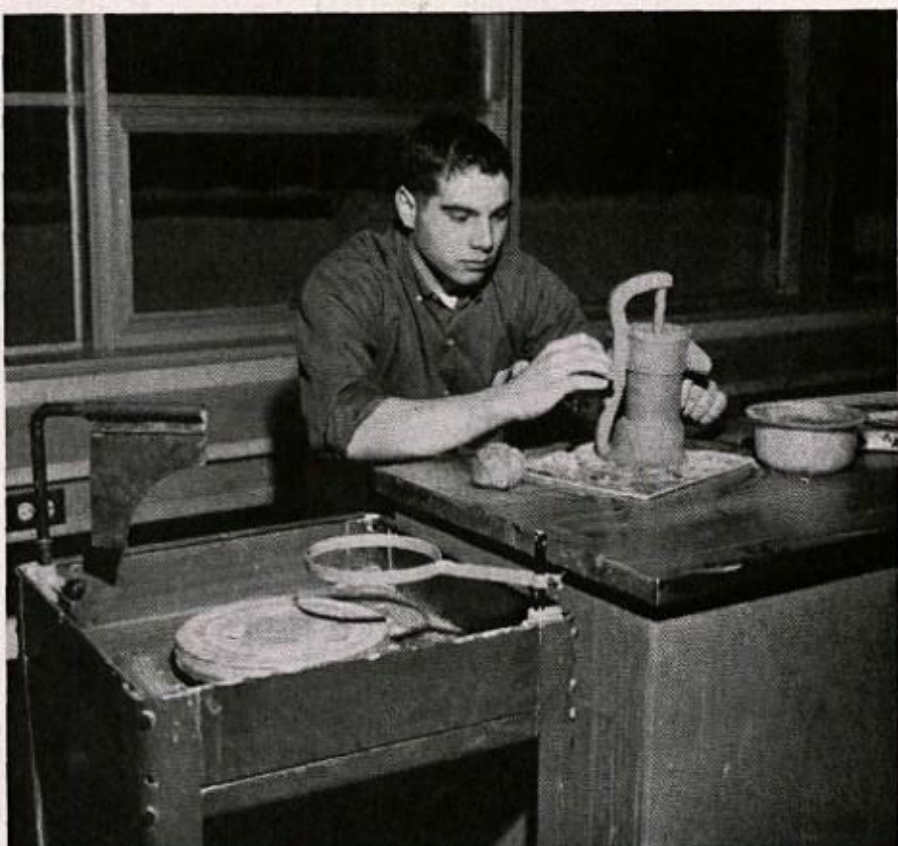

Members of the homemaking class demonstrated the practical household art for Monday.

Miss Chase, who assumed the position of home economics teacher in January, instructed her classes in the proper method of setting the dinner table.

Knowing the "way to a man's heart," homemaking students industriously strove to master the culinary arts.

Art

The creative world of art attracted many students who wished to develop their individual talents in freehand drawing, ceramics, and commercial art. Students spent the first part of the year acquiring a basic understanding of elementary art and design. One aspect of the course concerned problems in abstract forms with charcoal and crayon and problems in creations with tempera paint and water color. Improving with experience, the students attempted more difficult projects such as figure drawing, metal enameling, and oil painting. Those interested in a commercial art career continually occupied themselves with posters and with lettering for various school functions. Experimentation with form, color, and texture added to the students' capabilities. Working with sculpture, scratchboards, and leather provided much room for self-expression, and the potter's wheel afforded the students an opportunity to produce many pieces of useful and decorative pottery.

The modern, well-equipped art room plus the capable supervision of the instructor, Mr. Schultz, contributed much to the pleasant atmosphere that prevailed throughout the year.

ART preserved the colorful scenery.

Art students displayed their skill in creating models.

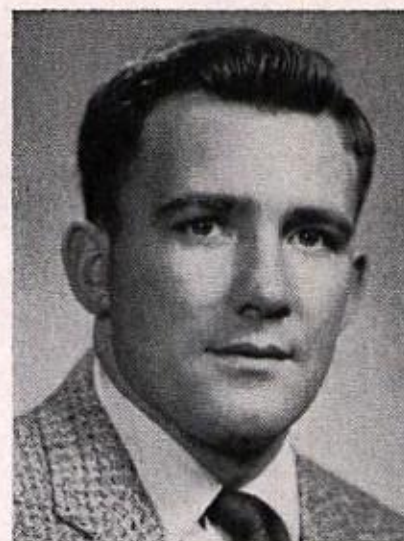

As an art project, Charles Brown created a wood sculpture.

Physical Education kept tourists

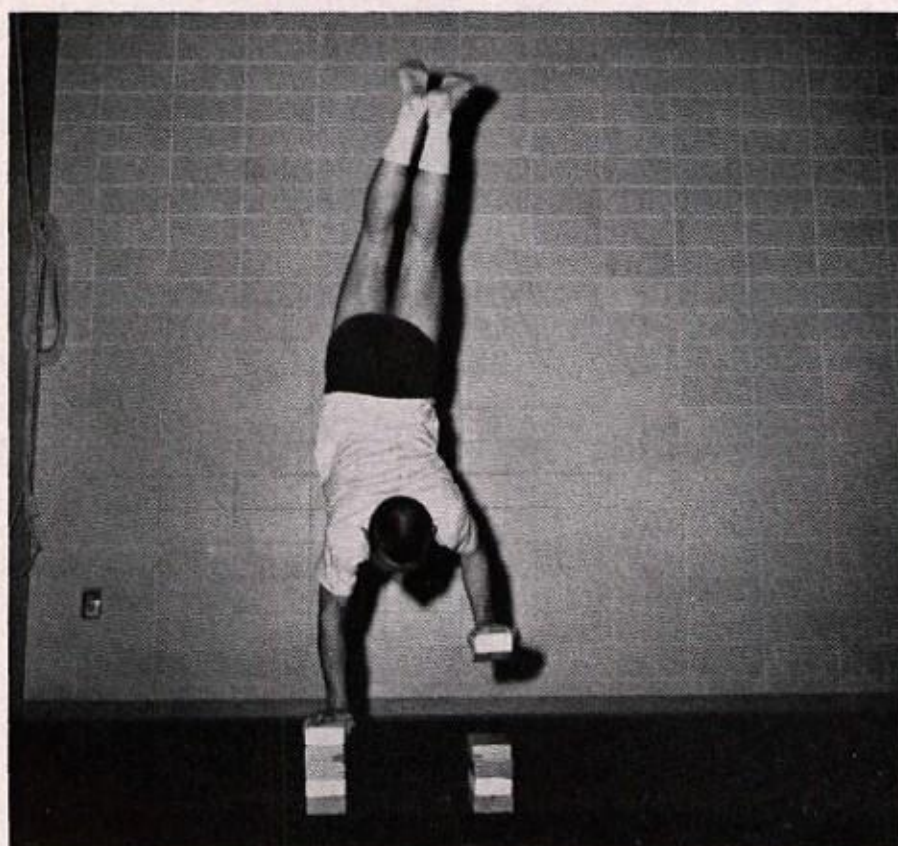

Besides serving for fun and recreation, physical education for boys developed character, sportsmanship, coordination, and physical fitness. Early in the year all students participated in a pilot study for physical fitness in a state program conducted by President Kennedy's Youth Fitness Council. They also took the National Physical Fitness Test comparing themselves with boys in other parts of the country. Results showed, for the first part, a poor degree of fitness, but at the end of the year, after repeating the same tests, it was gratifying to find a much higher degree of fitness.

When the weather permitted, physical education classes went outdoors, played touch football, soccer, and softball, or engaged in other activities. Basketball, wrestling, tumbling, and gymnastics provided many hours of strenuous activity indoors. Coeducational gym, such as games and dancing, brought much pleasure to the students. Weight lifting, juggling, rope skipping, rope spinning, Indian clubs, balancing, pyramid building, and marching added skills that were fun to learn, but challenging.

The outcome of the physical education classes was an exciting gym show in which hundreds of students participated. Using "International Showtime" as the theme, this year's exhibition was a great success. The program included acts on the parrallel bars, the high bar, the trampoline, and the flying rings. Other acts included hand balancing, juggling with fire, free exercise under black light, flying ladder, and balance beam exercises. The show closed with patriotic statues in silver. Mr. Summers' circus band accompanied with appropriate music.

Tony Ross displayed his skill in balancing on blocks.

Charles McMillen showed his ability as a juggler, an art acquired in gym class.

in condition for their journey.

The main objective of the girls' physical education classes was to give every girl a chance to improve her co-ordination and to develop her various skills. Believing that physical fitness was one of the most important aspects in their lives and that it influenced everything they did, the girls participated in a well-rounded program during the year.

Enjoying the autumn weather, the girls played soft ball and kickball on the baseball diamond on the hill. When the weather was not pleasant, they took physical fitness tests in the gymnasium to see how they compared with other girls in the nation. A study of the fundamentals of basketball and softball gave the girls a better understanding of these games and developed good sportsmanship. Choosing teams, the girls participated in game tournaments. Contests for class championship produced rivalry and enthusiastic team spirit.

Tumbling, an important exercise, developed co-ordination and various skills. Calisthenics, relays, and drills exercised other muscles not commonly used, and developed good posture habits. Table tennis and shuffleboard developed useful social skills.

Gym students enjoyed learning new folk and square dances. Besides providing fun, the aim of dancing class periods was to acquire grace and poise.

Taking an important part in the International Showtime, the girls performed on the flying rings, revolving ladder, trampoline, parallel bars, and the balance beam. They also engaged in tumbling and free exercise.

The girls' gym classes exhibited their combined tumbling skills in pyramid formations.

Practical projects highlighted the tour.

The boys in the shop classes completed a number of projects designed to enrich the mind through the skillful use of the hands. An electrical shop available for the first time in the new building gave students a background of practical theory on which they could build radio receivers and other electronic equipment.

In the metal shop working on many projects such as iron chairs, tools, and aluminum casting enabled the boys to demonstrate their ambidextrous abilities.

In the wood shop, in addition to the usual gunracks and tables, industrious students made chests of drawers, boats, and other equally difficult projects.

Mechanical drawing, also a part of the shop program, provided the plans for many of the projects. Under the guidance of Mr. Kristy, Mr. Youngberg, and Mr. Perkins, the industrial arts teachers, the shop program trained craftsmen to make significant contributions to the industrial growth of our community.

Mastery of the techniques of sportsmanlike driving was the basis of study in driver education, a required one-semester course for juniors and a few sophomores who had reached their sixteenth birthdays. Classroom discussions, periodic tests on theory, and motion pictures helped prospective drivers to learn the rules and regulations that were so necessary in becoming careful, courteous, and competent drivers. With two cars supplied by local car dealers, students practiced the theories which they had studied in the classroom.

Under the watchful eyes of experienced supervisors, Mr. Springer and Mr. Massa, the students practiced driving in traffic, parallel-parking, and making U-turns. After they had perfected their skills, they reported to the Armory to complete the eye tests required of all applicants for drivers' licenses, and after driving under the escort of a state policeman, they hoped to secure drivers' licenses in Pennsylvania.

Sixteen-year old students had the opportunity to receive a junior license. To have a senior license at seventeen, the students must have passed the driver education course, must have received their parents' consent and the permission of the school, and must have had an unblemished record in driving.

Sportsmanlike DRIVING safeguarded the travelers.

Terrance Honhart demonstrated the proper method of applying chains to tires.

Mr. Massa helped Patricia Johnson to learn the proper position of hands on the wheel as Michael Morell and Pauline Tremblay looked on.

Occupational Education made helpful preparations.

Occupational education again this year provided its students with a wide range of new and first-hand experiences. The class members and Mr. Trowbridge, their teacher, deserved much credit for the work which they accomplished.

Work in the cafeteria each day included food preparation, serving, and restoration. All students received grades for this phase of the course.

Some students took part in the maintenance of the high school building. To gain experience, different students spent the mornings in janitorial work at Jefferson Elementary School. As a means of studying assembly line techniques, time study, and efficiency, all students undertook the job of assembling the "Dragonette," the high school newspaper. Other class members aided in the placement of audio-visual machines and in the distribution of school supplies to different rooms.

In the Out-of-School Work Experience Program, selected members held a job and worked a half-day during the second semester.

Occupational education included the fundamentals of social studies, mathematics, and English.

Students of this course continually demonstrated the value of good citizenship.

These students were part of the first student groups to occupy the new school in September, 1960.

Students

The First, Second, and Third Class Tourists made up the party for the tour Around W. A. H. S. in One Hundred Eighty-five Days. Choosing their own electives, each group worked hard to leave a good record of his tour. The season was novel and exciting for the sophomores. The juniors marked off one more year on their journey to graduation. For the seniors, while it was a year of anticipation, excitement, and scores of cherished moments on the tour, yet it marked their final schooling before undertaking a more difficult task in life. May it be their duty to uphold the principles taught to them in Warren Area High School.

An activity-packed year brimmed with memories.

James Peterson, Joyce Johnson, and Douglas Knowlton received letters of commendation for outstanding achievement in the National Merit Scholarship Examination.

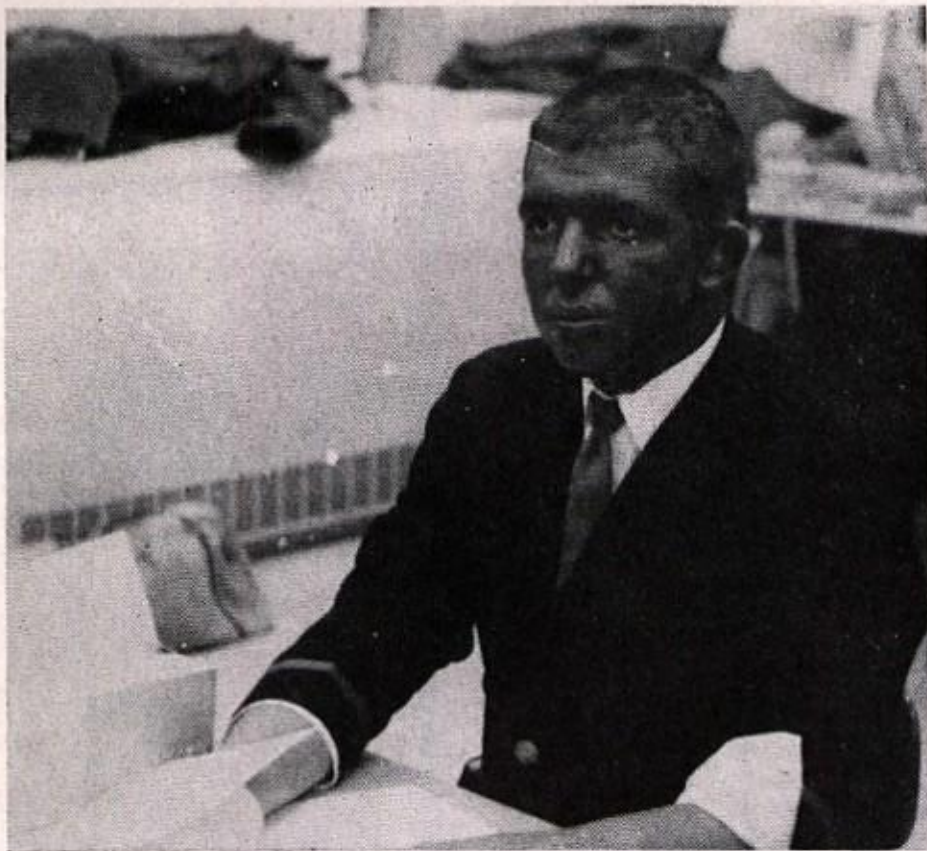

Jo Ellen Day did an admirable job as fortune teller in "The Skin of Our Teeth."

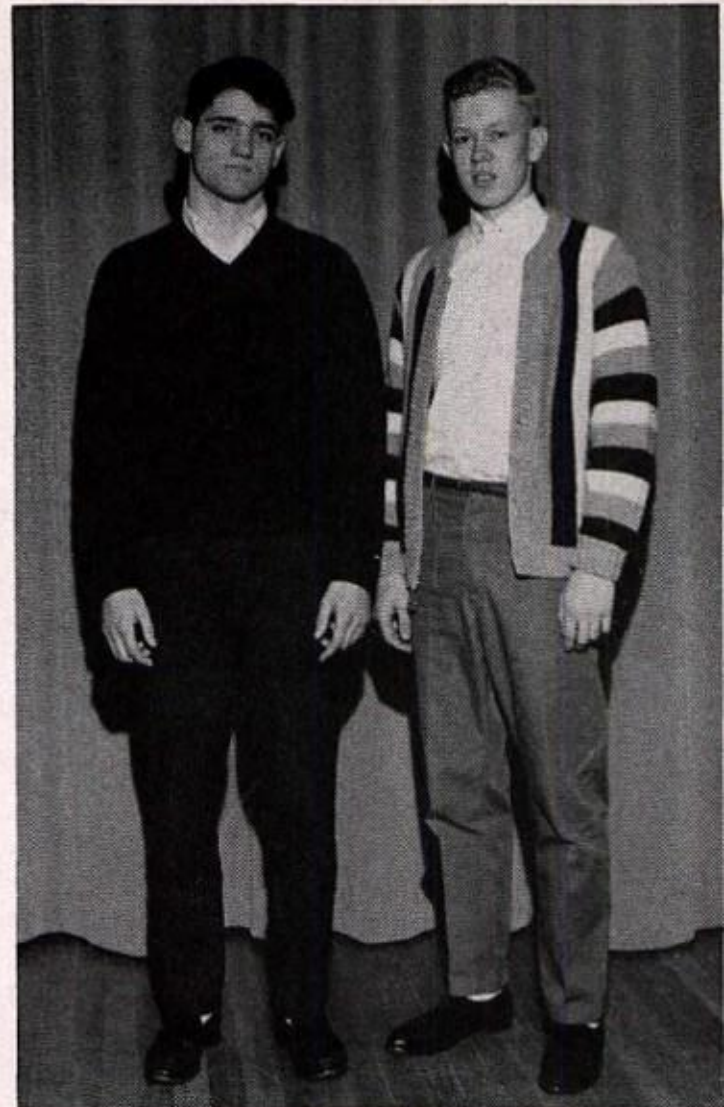

Representatives from many different colleges visited Warren Area High School to talk with prospective students.

With the measurements for caps and gowns, seniors realized the rapid approach of graduation.

Mike Rice received make-up for his dual role as a theatre usher and a chair-pusher in the Senior Class Play.

Thomas Moore and Dennis Shield were finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Test.

Murray Foreman, Susan Walls, Jon Marti, Penelope Abe, John Henry, Victoria Hammerbeck, Michael Rice, Susan Whren, and William Eldridge attended District Chorus at Edinboro High School.

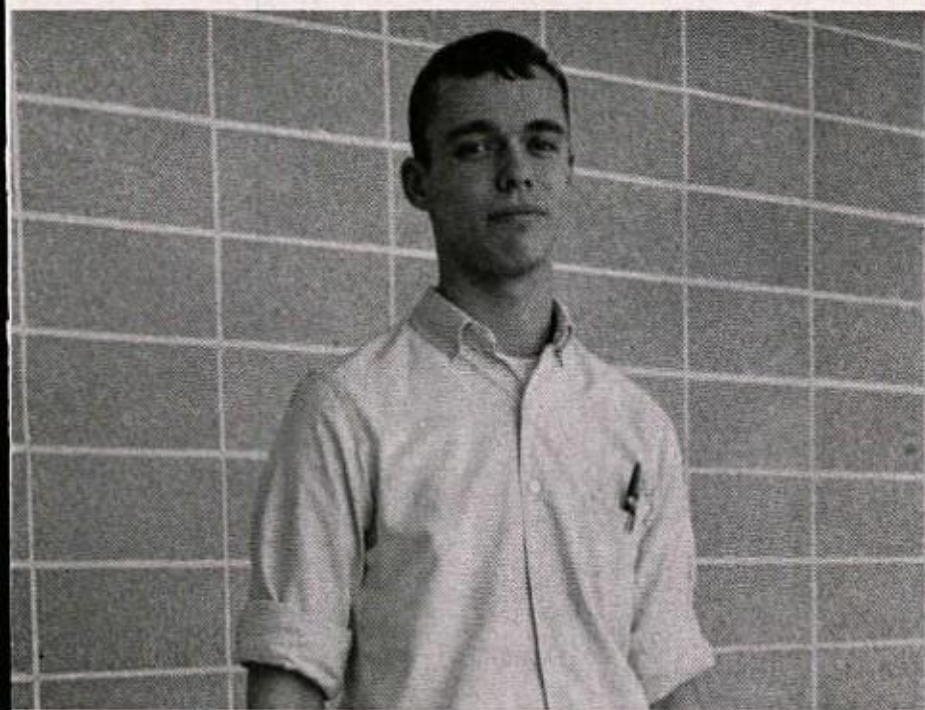

To increase the Foreign Exchange Student Fund, Tom Lindberg, Student Council president, accepted from the Columbia Gas Co. a check representing student participation in ticket sales for the Pittsburgh Symphony Concert.

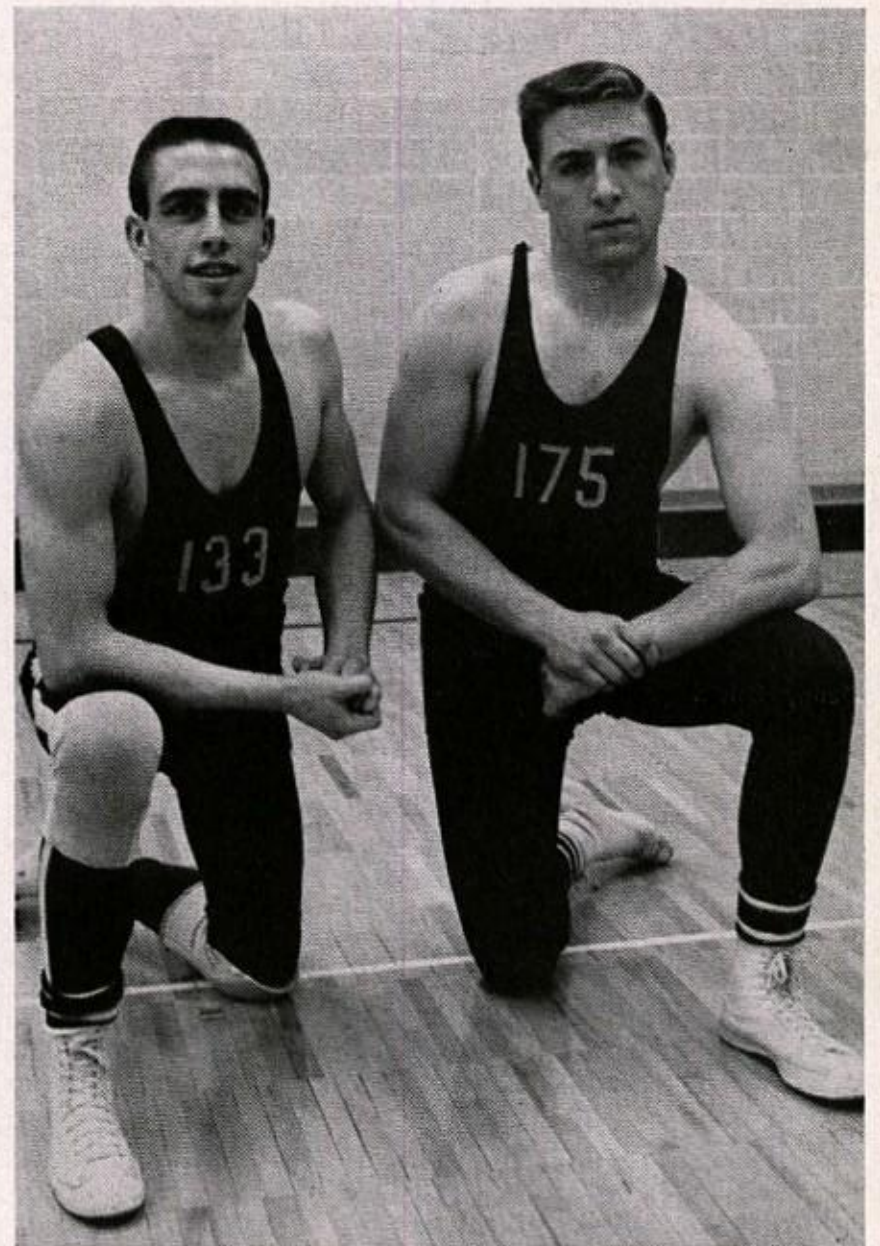

Margaret Shaffer (left) was the recipient of the Good Citizen Award, presented by the General Warren Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution to a senior girl possessing to an outstanding degree the qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. For her outstanding work in American history Linda Werner (right) received the American history medal, a gift also from the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Donald Wilson, team captain, received honorable mention for his superior basketball ability in Section II.

At the signal of the bell, Joyce Johnson, a member of the speech class, broadcast important school events to home room students.

During the sectional tournament, Robert Wick and John Ponsoll climaxed their last wrestling bouts in high school with spectacular victories.

Competing with other girls in Warren Area High School, Rebecca Samuelson scored first in the knowledge and attitude test on homemaking and won the first award in the 1963 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Outstanding seniors enlivened the sojourn.

Mr. Antrobus greeted the six refugees as they fled before the advancing wall of ice during the ice age.

The telegraph boy warned Mrs. Antrobus of the approaching ice, as the mammoth and the dinosaur huddled for warmth before the fireplace.

The Senior Play symbolized man's indestructibility.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder, the senior class dramatic production, met with great success. The play portrayed the characters of Mr. Antrobus (Charles Lucia), his wife (Nancy Coyle), their two children (Kristi Hanson and James Peterson), and their maid Sabina (Jill O'Hara). These few had survived from the beginning of the world through a treacherous ice age, a flood, wars, and depressions. At different periods Mr. Antrobus represented the head of the family, the head of the country, and a prominent politician. The family symbolized the average American, up against life's disappointments and disasters, but always hopeful and optimistic enough to emerge unharmed to carry on their lives. The play began with slides of a newsreel depicting various events in American homes all over the country and with a first introduction to Mr. Antrobus, the politician. The play progressed from the ice age to present day, with Sabina, the maid, challenging the theory of the family, with Mrs. Antrobus doing her best to keep the family together, and with the boy Henry destroying many of their hopes and plans.

The students' efforts to produce this difficult play were well rewarded, as they did an excellent job of portraying the characters, supplying appropriate costumes and scenery for different acts, selling tickets, and spreading publicity. With the help of Mr. Andersen, dramatics advisor, and the student directors, the cast produced a praiseworthy performance. The attractive ushers added tone to the performance as they distributed programs and collected tickets. Proceeds from the play went towards the exchange student fund and the senior class treasury.

Second Row—Douglas Olson, Kandee Baldensperger, Patricia Christie, Priscilla Zastawney, Patricia Millard, Lynda Ahlgren, Michael Rice, James Senger, Susan Slick.

In the "Monkey's Paw" by W. W. Jacobs, the mystery of the monkey's paw unfolded.

A troupe of travelers presented an Evening of Plays.

In "The Safecracker's Pride" by Nicholas Bela, the officer explained the work of a burglar to the burglar himself.

Travelers having dramatic interests presented the following program for the Evening of Plays: "The Monkey's Paw," "The Safecracker's Pride," and "Song For a Hero." In "The Monkey's Paw," with parts played by Neva Sshwitzer, James Peterson, Robert Johnson, Ronald Knopf, and Russell Dase, a magic monkey's paw granted three unfortunate wishes and caused a tragedy to occur. Frank Nichols, Nancy Coyle, John Shortt, Linda Weldon, and Carole Bloom acted in "The Safecracker's Pride," the story of the reform of a professional safecracker. The third play, "Song For a Hero," portrayed a shy boy's (John Lindberg) salvation of a village and his marriage to Anna (Jillorma Bova).

Brother Bernardo in the "Song for a Hero" by Lee Schaefer practiced for the marriage celebration.

Junior highlights provided lasting souvenirs.

The exchange student hopefuls awaited the day when one of them would go to a foreign country.

The officers of the junior class were the first to receive and admire their new rings.

"Dino" by Reginald Rose was the se'ection for the Junior Class play coached by Mr. Andersen and student director Patricia Oriole. An excellent cast portrayed the story of a young man who at the last moment turned from a life of crime and delinquency to a happier and more useful life.

For the Science Fair Joel Roop constructed an electrical numerical computer.

Mr. Fey's Advanced Placement class in American history proved to be high-powered historians.

At the end of the basketball season, J. Johnson and Bob Arnold held the high scores of the junior players.

IN MEMORIAM

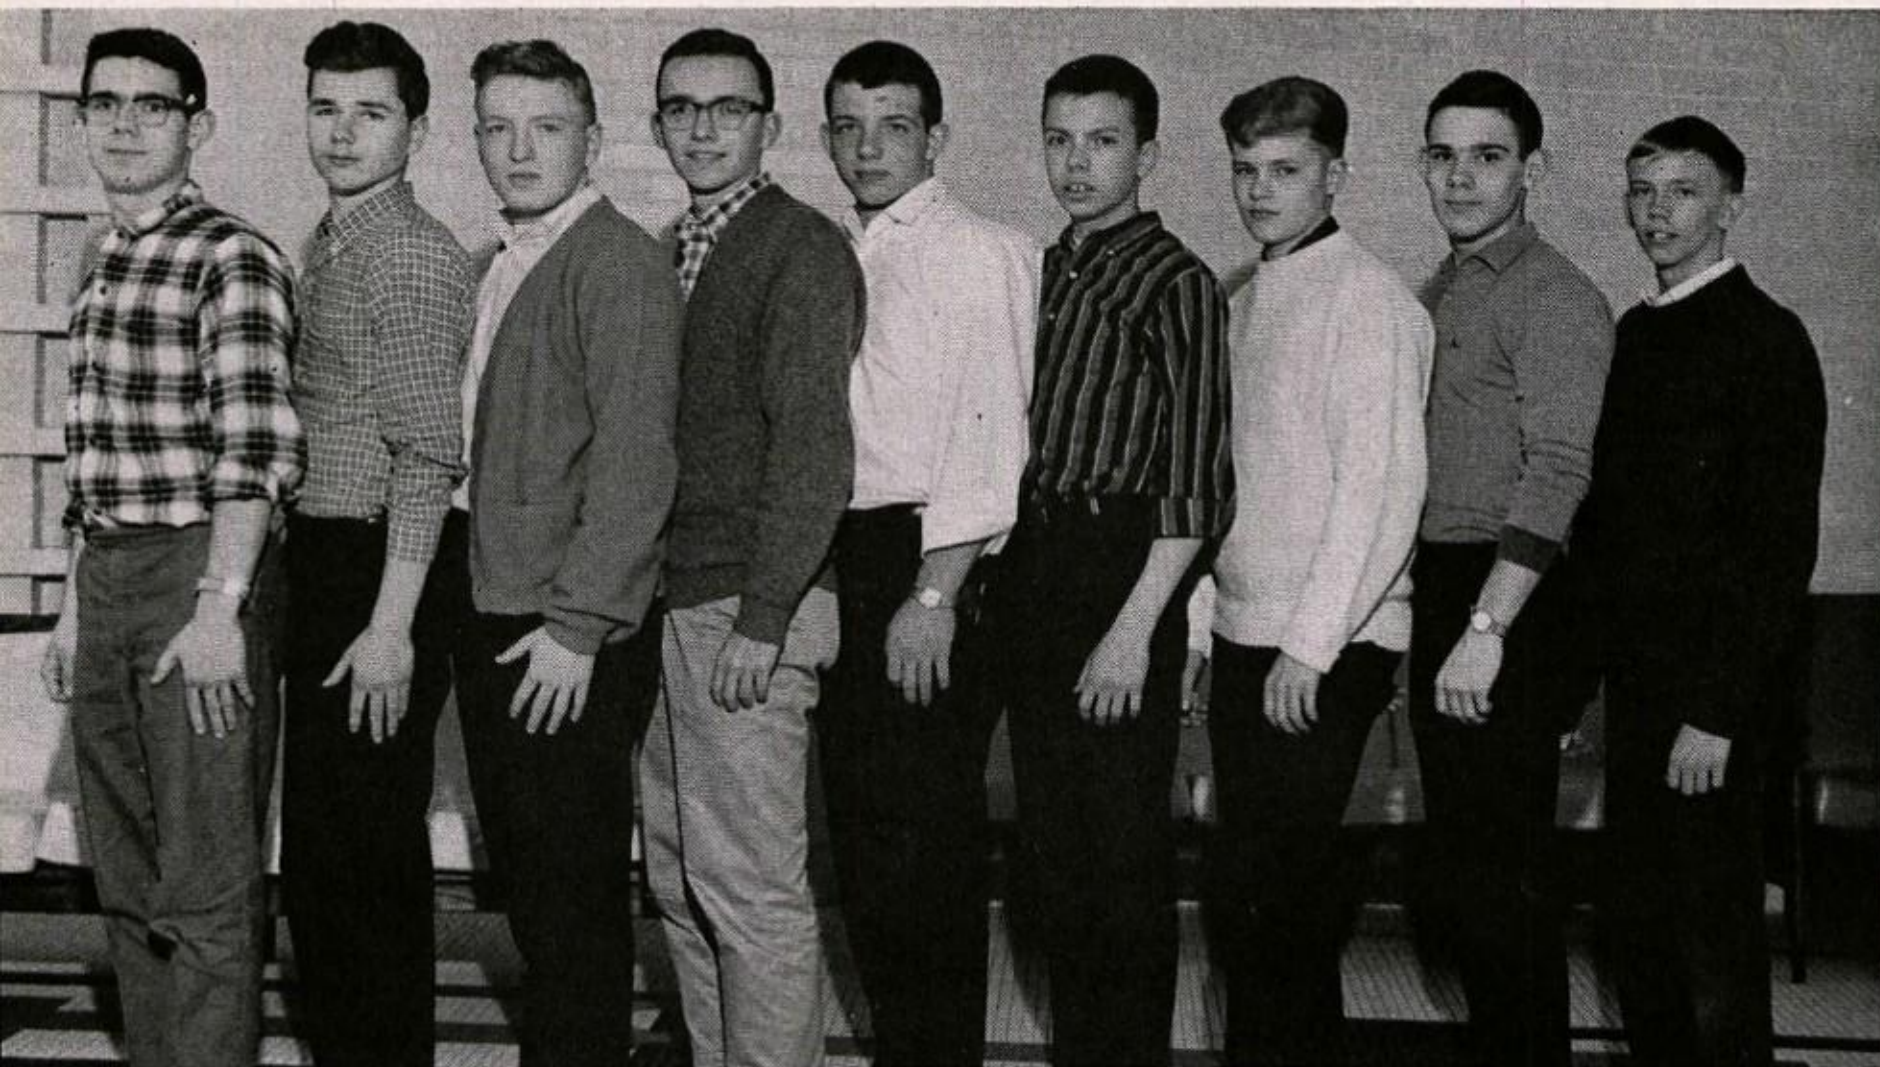

Candace Greenlund

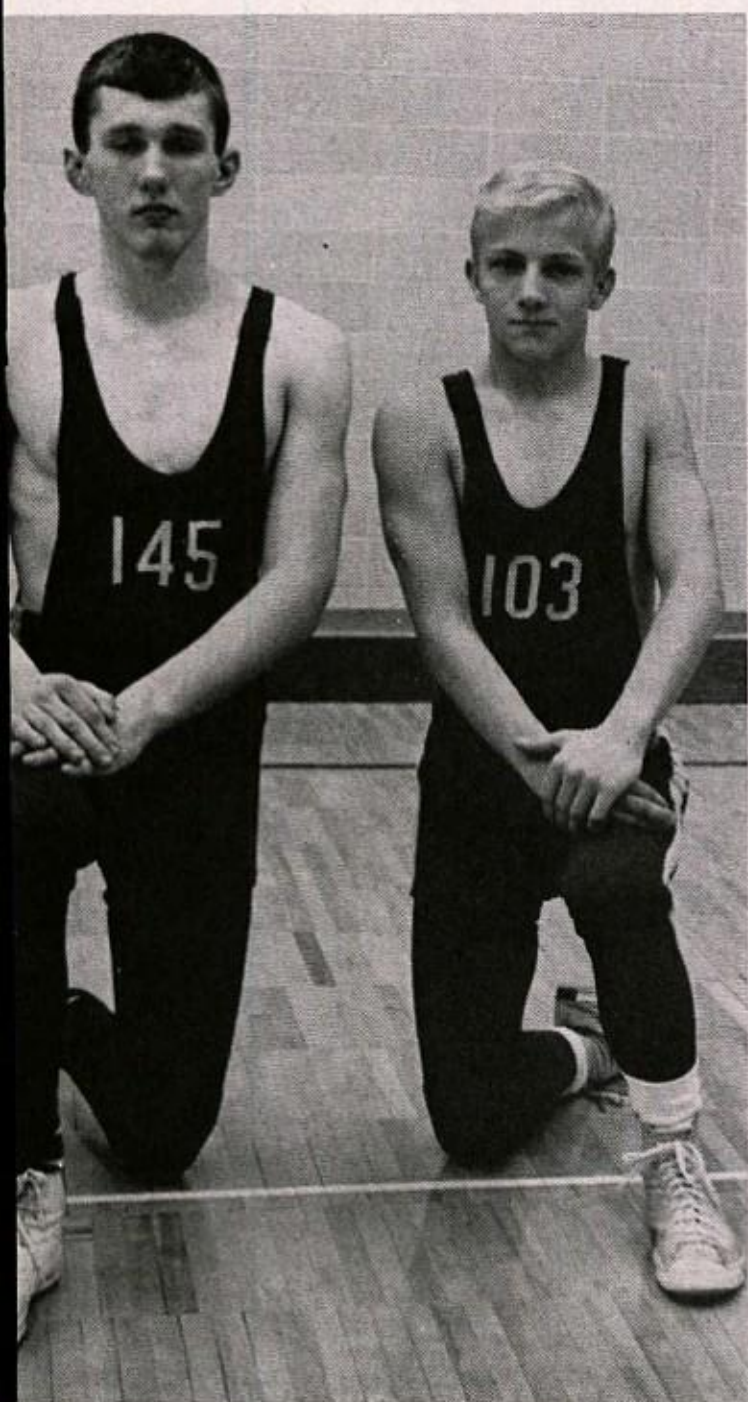

Reaching for the extra values in English, members of the Literary Cavalcade English Club met voluntarily with Mrs. Thorn on Wednesday afternoons to discuss various phases of English.

The Sophomore tour ended with pleasant memories.

Having won sectional championships this year, Richard Thompson and William Sudul, sophomores, qualified to be the mainstays of future wrestling teams.

Sports

Physical activity usually brought a most satisfying sensation of accomplishment for everyone. Whether it was a championship team or one which could simply be proud of a job well done, Warren Area High athletes worked well together.

The many different kinds of activities as gymnastics, archery, and golf made accessible a sport for nearly every student in which to participate through inter-scholastic or intramural programs and provided entertainment Around W A. H. S. During One Hundred Eighty-five Days.

With a perfect league record of 8-0, the members of the Dragon Wrestling Team were the recipients of the Section Two trophy (left), the team championship trophy for the Section Four Wrestling Tournament (middle), and the Clarion Holiday Tournament team trophy (right).

T.A.L.

With thirteen returning lettermen, the Dragon varsity football team turned in a respectable 5-5 record. After a 14-12 loss to Corry, Warren bounced back and handed Franklin its first Section II loss in three years, 14-6. Before a large Autumn Festival crowd, the Dragons blanked Meadville 20-0. Following a hard fought 26-20 loss at the hands of Olean, Warren literally smashed Ridgway 40-13. When the Dragons trekked to Kane, they found not only an undefeated team but also a field covered with mud. The Kane Wolves emerged from this hard fought game with a 13-0 victory and an undefeated season. Warren, underestimating the Dunkirk Marauders, was defeated 15-14 on a first period safety. The Dragons capped the 1962 season by completely out-playing and defeating arch-rival Jamestown 20-0.

Doug Wilson blocked one of the host of Corry rushers as Vince P completed a long pass.

The young Dragon Basketball Team, aided by the services of only one returning letterman, showed fans and opposing teams their future potential as they won four of their last six games. The Dragons played the most exciting of these six games on the Meadville hardwood. With Meadville in the lead most of the game, the Dragons surged ahead in the fourth quarter but then lost the game in the final fifteen seconds by one point, 59-58.

The Warren Invitational Tournament highlighted the sports scene over the Christmas holidays. Youngsville, Sharpville, Erie Strong Vincent, and Warren participated in the event with Erie Strong Vincent defeating Warren in the final game for the championship.

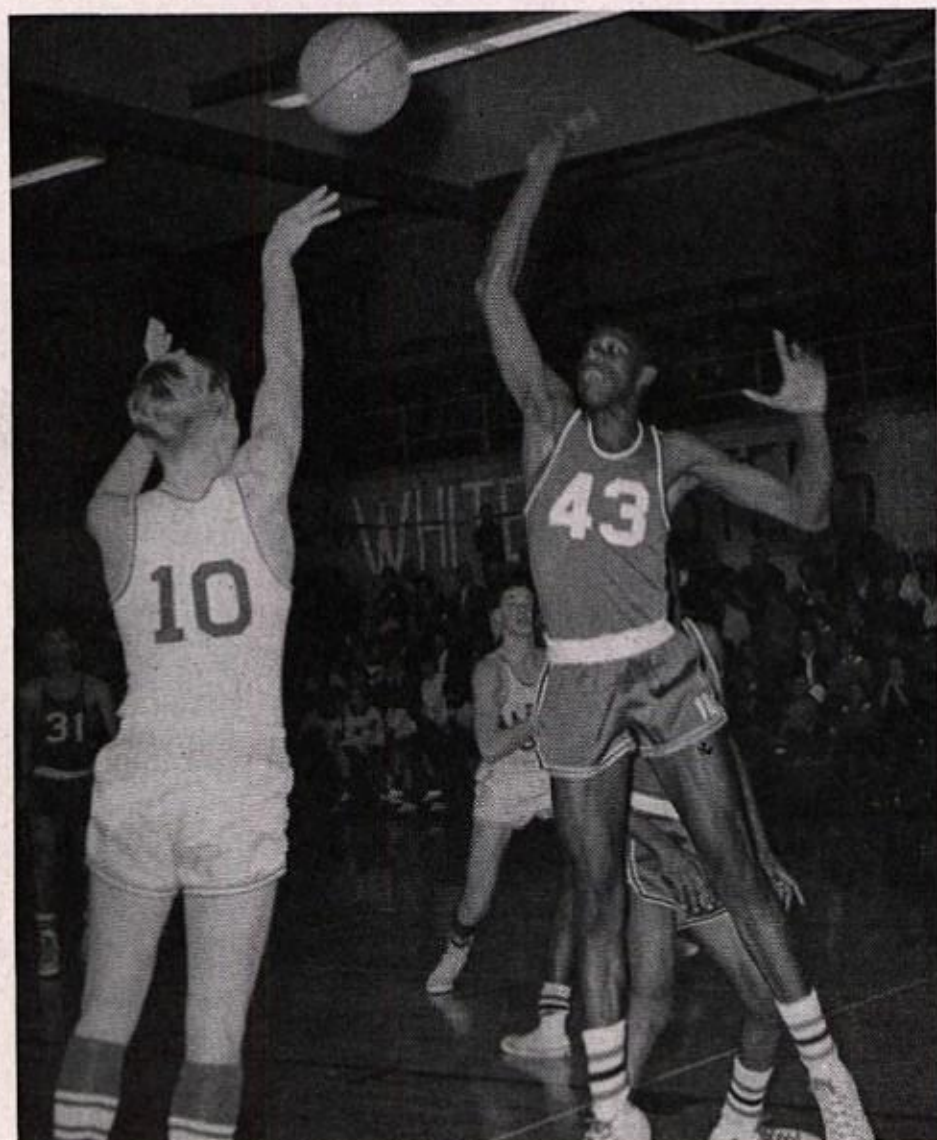

Although the Dragon seasonal record was not outstanding, the coaches, Mr. Massa and Mr. Randas, the players, and the managers deserved credit for representing Warren Area High School with great competitive spirit and true sportsmanship.

The Dragon Wrestling Team, coached by Mr. Harold Miller, Mr. Weber, and Mr. Jewell, added prestige to Warren Area High athletics by winning three first-place trophies and by turning in a 10-3 record. The wrestlers won the Clarion Holiday Tournament, as William Sudul, Robert Wick, Richard Thompson, and John Ponsoll won individual titles.

After winning the Section Two title with an 8-0 record, the Dragons dominated the Section Four Tournament, held in Warren. Individual champions who advanced to the District Ten Tournament in Meadville were Sudul at 103 pounds, Wick at 133 pounds, Thompson at 145 pounds, and Ponsoll at 180 pounds. Tournament runner-ups, who gave Warren valuable team points, were Terry Rich at 95 pounds and Gail Winslow at Unlimited.

Senior Robert Wick turned in the best individual record, 18-1, as he broke the previous Warren record of 17 victories in one season.

The Dragon Wrestlers were 8-0 in Section Two.

The Warren Area High Baseball Team, coached by Mr. Kucher and Mr. Smith, found spring weather one of their toughest opponents of the season. Rain and cold temperatures forced the Dragons to hold early practices in the gym. Indoor practices consisted of calisthenics, sprints, and fielding and pitching drills.

When the weather cleared enough for outdoor practice, over sixty boys competed for the nine starting positions. Two-year lettermen, Thomas Wescott and Charles Lucia, along with nine other lettermen, formed the nucleus of the Dragon baseball nine.

Intra-squad scrimmages and batting practice developed keen competition among the many experienced candidates for infield, outfield, catching, and pitching positions. Teams that provided formidable competition were Meadville, Jamestown, Spartansburg, and Olean.

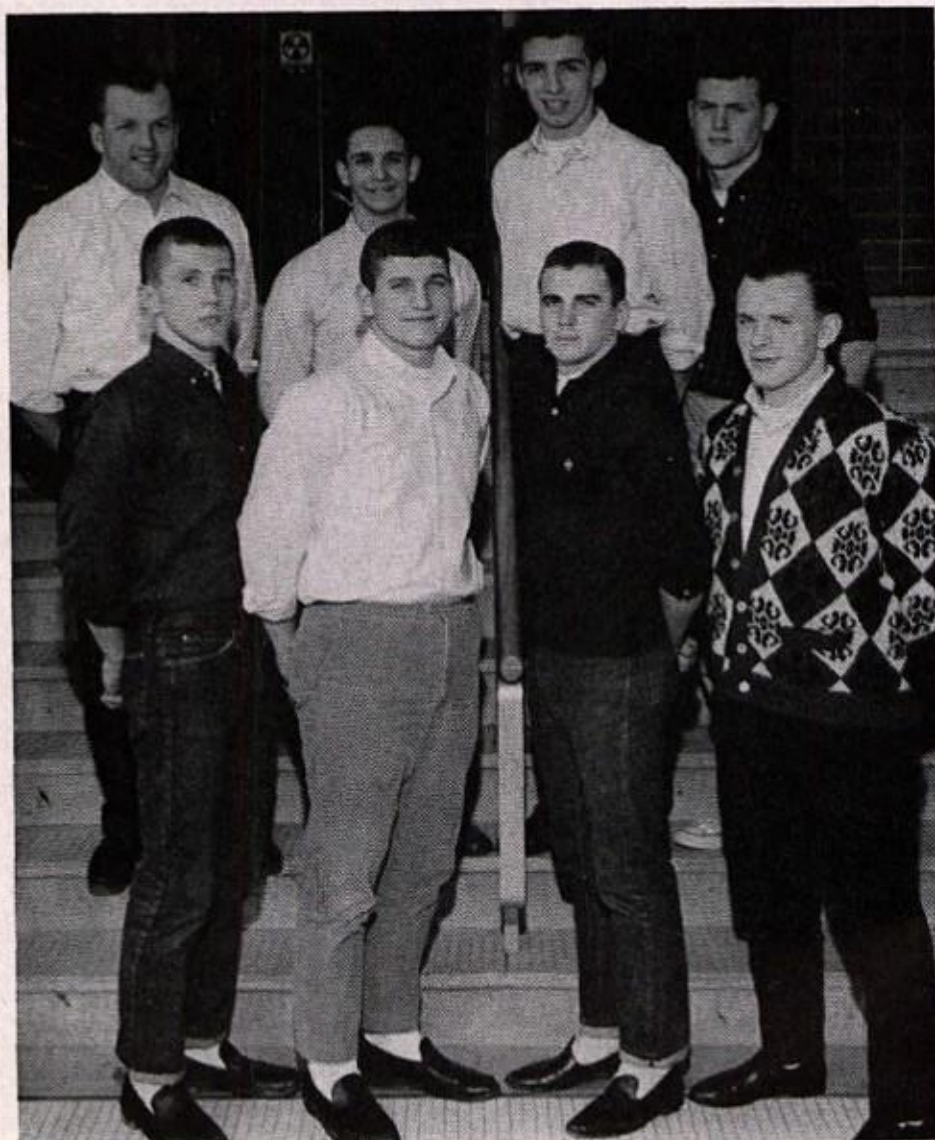

The team and the coaches deserved great credit for their fine play and sportsmanship.

Mr. King leaped for joy as Vince Pace beat out this infield hit.

At the first signs of spring and fair weather, the Dragon golf team, coached by Mr. Jewell, began practice on the Conewango Valley Country Club course. Before the spring thaw, the Dragons had confined their practice sessions to the high school basement.

The golf squad based their hopes for a successful season on the skills of senior Dennis Shield and two-year, junior letterman, David Dahler. Robert Phillips, a letter recipient in golf at Sharon High School last year, proved to be a valuable asset to the 1963 Dragon golf team.

Golf also proved to be popular with the fairer sex of Warren Area High, for it was the only interscholastic sport in which they participated.

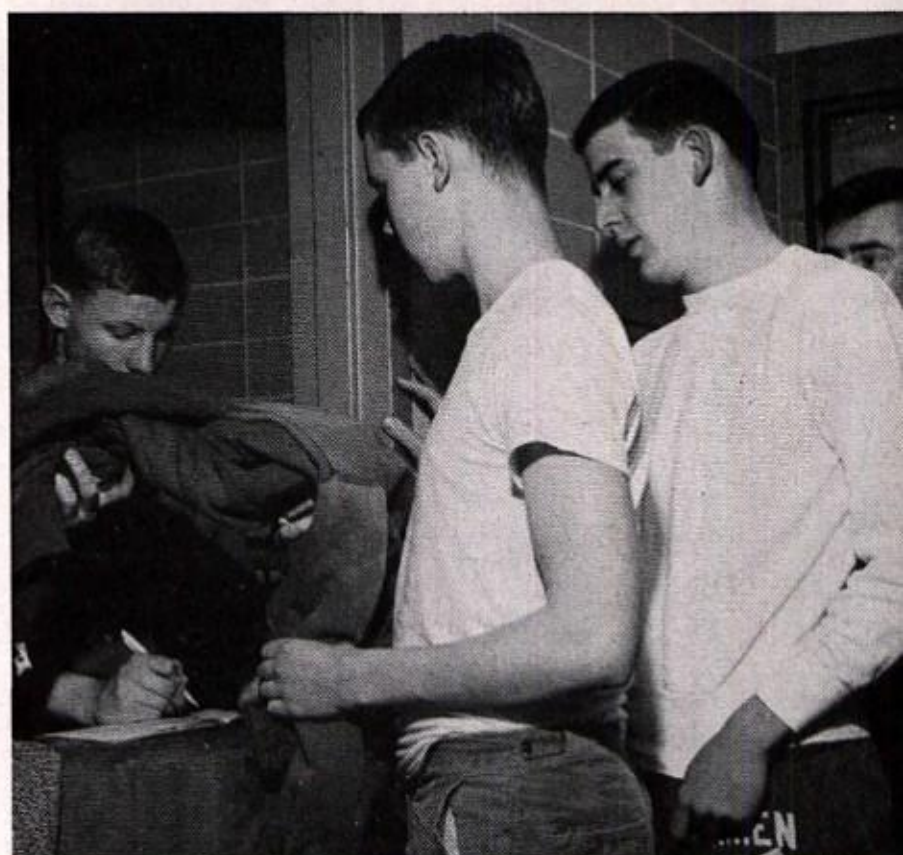

David Dahler prepared to tee off on Number One Fairway at the Country Club.

The experience of nine lettermen added confidence and support to the Warren Area High School Track and Field Team. Others joined this active group and began workouts in early March. By the time of the first meet the cindermen had worked themselves into fine fitness.

Daily practice began with calisthenics in the gymnasium while the weather remained cold. Then the exercising moved outside with the coming of mild days. Beginning with moderate speeds, low heights, and short distances, runners, pole vaulters, broad jumpers, discus and javelin throwers soon assumed full strength activities. Eliminations before every meet decided the participants in the following day's encounter.

The Warren Track Team of 1963 did much to increase the popularity of these events in Warren. Mr. Briggs, Mr. Bell, and the Dragon squad deserved much praise for their hard work and fine record.

Track candidates, Dennis Winans and Thomas State, accepted their sweatsuits in anticipation of spring training.

y Siggins, a returning track letterman, resumed his practice with the focus preparatory to another record-breaking season.

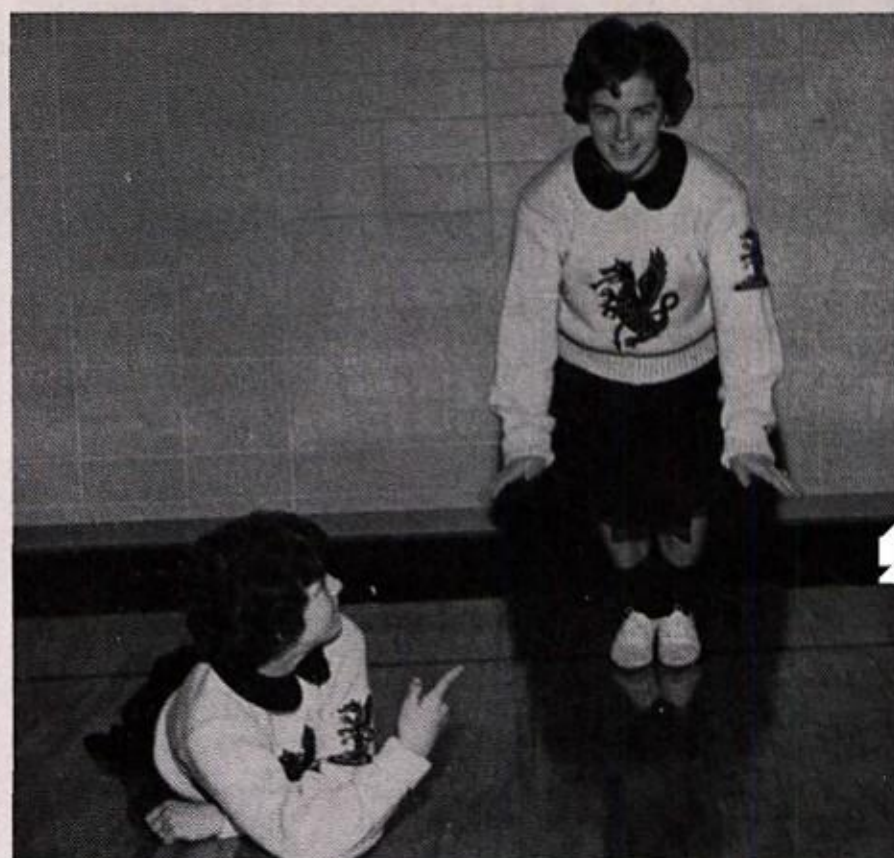

Hampered by inclement weather in the early part of the season, trackmen practiced in the school gym.

Long hours of strenuous practice, beginning early in the spring and continuing through most of the summer months, developed a group of vivacious cheerleaders. Ability, personality, and vitality formed the competitive basis for the selection of the varsity and the junior varsity squads.

The cheerleaders put much careful planning into their pep assemblies, held in the gymnasium for the entire student body. The pep assemblies aroused the interest of the students in sports events and gave the players assurance that they had support from their fellow students.

During the football and the basketball seasons, the cheerleaders traveled to out-of-town games along with busloads of enthusiastic students. During the wrestling matches they brightened the morale of the spectators as well as that of the wrestlers.

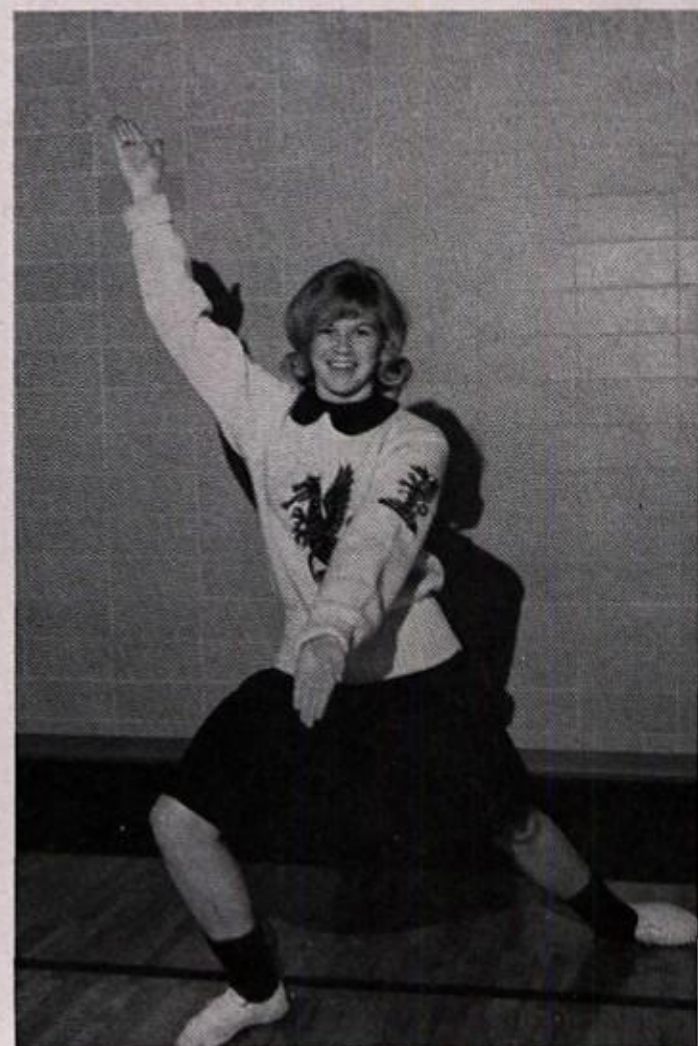

Lisa Johnson and Barbara Towne, cheerleaders, devised original cheer to arouse team spirit.

The Girls' Athletic Association stimulated interest in intramural sports and provided an opportunity for girls to participate in various sports. All girls in Warren Area High School were eligible for membership in G. A. A. When a girl earned one hundred points, she became a permanent member.

Girls received points for playing, officiating, and scorekeeping. By earning a sufficient number of points through the year, a member received a certificate, a letter, or a sweater.

The officers and the senior and the junior sport managers directed the program of activities for this year, which included volleyball, basketball, and softball. Each sport offered pickup, invitational, class, and all-star tournaments. Miss Falkner, the girls' gym instructor, sponsored this organization.

Organizations

As soon as the tourists were on their way Around W. A. H. S. in One Hundred Eighty-five Days, the slate of activities began to develop. To vary the monotony of the daily routine, some travelers engaged in dramatics, some chose linguistic clubs, some selected occupational training, and still others picked the editorial field. Each one could find a place among the organizations offered, if his interest were sufficient. It is impossible to estimate all the benefits gained from these activities, but they offered an opportunity for social gatherings on a common-interest level and aimed to develop conscientious, well-informed adults so necessary in every community.

Student Council expressed popular views of the tour.

Thomas Lindberg, Council president, led a discussion on a money-making project for the Exchange Student Fund.

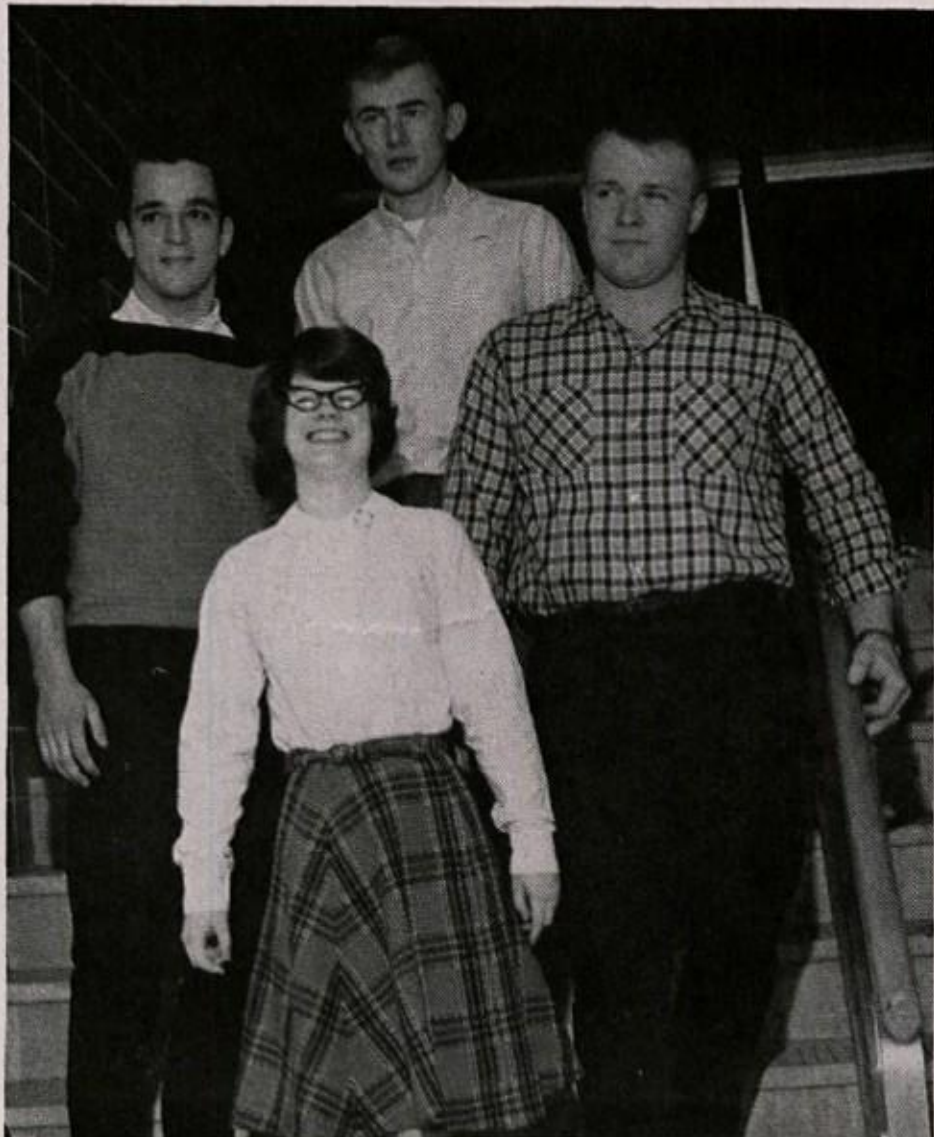

A picnic at Wilder Field in August gave the council members an opportunity to meet Roberto Masi, foreign exchange student to Warren Area High School from Rome, Italy. His friendly smile and witty personality made him one of the most popular boys in the entire school. Because of his instant success, the council decided not only to receive an exchange student next year but also to send a student abroad. In order to raise money for this project, every member did his part in selling candy, bookcovers, Dragon license plates, blue and white pennants, and tickets to the Evening of Plays and to the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra Concert.

Representatives to the State Convention in Monroeville were Dennis Boyd, Cindi Buerkle, and advisor, Mrs. McClure. Patricia Hyatt, Charles Kurz, Chris Keys, and Roberto Masi went to the District Convention in Waterford.

Dear Friends,

Warren Area High School has been the center of my American life, the place where I have received invaluable experience which will help me in all my life.

Besides the beauty of the building, I shall always remember "My" school for the affection, friendship, and comprehension that I have found in it.

I feel everybody, from the principal to the last student, my friend, and I hope only that they will remember me as I will always remember them.

It has not been difficult for me to be happy in this year; I have always found a smile for each time I was sad or homesick, and I have always found a hand for each time I needed help.

If W. A. H. S. has had, and I hope that everybody will think so, a positive experience with the exchange student program, each student may be proud of it and say he has taken part. They have, in fact, built a bridge, an ideal but indestructible bridge, between a large town, thousands of miles away, and here where I will leave a piece of my heart.

Sincerely yours,

Roberto Masi

Bob's mother, Signora Franca Masi, and twin brothers, Federigo and Massimo

Roberto Masi enriched the tour.

In a student assembly our foreign exchange student, Roberto Masi from Rome, Italy, presented to Warren Area High School the flag of his country. Accepting the flag, Tom Lindberg, president of the Student Council, welcomed Bob.

The Honor Society set high standards for tourists.

Officers: Kristi Hanson, Secretary; Dennis Shield, President; Sandra Ristau, Treasurer; James Peterson, Vice President.

The National Honor Society gave recognition to those students who displayed outstanding ability in the four cardinal virtues: character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Qualifications did not mean perfection in all of the virtues, but rather a genuine effort on the part of the student to strive to follow them at all times.

Members of the Warren Chapter were very proud that after careful consideration the faculty made the final selection for membership. The students will retain membership in the society as they continue to be honorable and worthy American citizens.

Only fifteen per cent of a class was eligible for membership in the society. Inductions occurred in November and February for seniors and in May for juniors.

To establish scholarships for worthy Warren students, the society sold senior name cards and presented a talent program for the Kiwanis, the Lions, and the Rotary Clubs of Warren. The student body later enjoyed the same program in an assembly.

The Stage Crew under the capable guidance of Mr. William Oelslager assumed the responsibility of stage management. They efficiently operated the house lights, the spotlights, the curtains, and various sound devices. This year the members of the stage crew worked for many school assembly programs and also worked approximately fifty nights for numerous activities outside of school. The boys received a reasonable fee for their work aside from school programs. They managed the stage for such activities as Orchestra, Band, and A Cappella Concerts, Civic Orchestra Concerts, the Concert Series, and the Barbershoppers' programs.

The boys helped to make many programs more enjoyable with the use of the excellent equipment provided. A closed telephone system furnished a means of communication between workers at their different stations on the stage, in the pit, and on the light bridge. The use of colored lights at strategic times created a very dramatic and appealing effect.

For seniors, William Eldridge and Jon Marti, this marked their third and sixth years, respectively, on the stage crew. Charles McMillen, Donald McCurdy, and John Donaldson, juniors, all completed their second year. Sophomores, Steven Marti and Francis Solomon, were new with the stage crew this year.

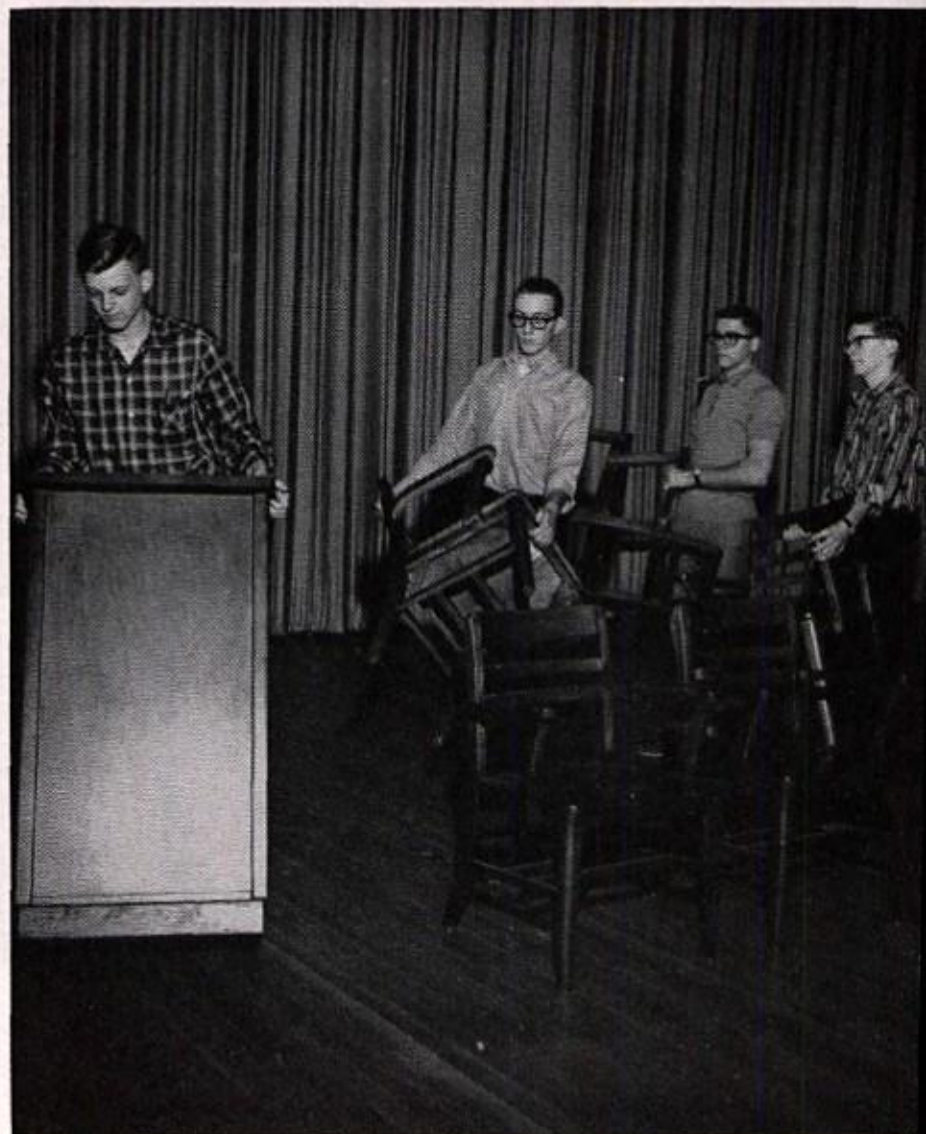

Mr. Oelslager supervised the work of the stage crew from his position in the pit.

The Stage Crew arranged the scenery.

Stage crew members, Jon Marti, Charles McMillen, William Eldridge, and Donald McCurdy, managed the stage properties.

Frank Solomon, Steven Marti, and John Donaldson conscientiously attended to their duties as members of the stage crew.

In a regular business meeting the Thespians planned to accept the invitation to attend the rehearsal of the Warren Players' Club production of "The Music Man."

Students who were interested in acting, directing, or backstage work were eligible for apprentice membership in the National Thespian Society. Full-fledged membership required apprentices to earn a total of ten points by participation in their chosen areas.

The purpose and the aim of the National Thespian Society, a newly-formed club in Warren Area High School, was the advancement and improvement of dramatic arts in secondary schools.

Seventeen members of the Thespian Society met in Room 24 on Tuesdays at three-thirty and seven o'clock alternately. Miss Suppa and Mr. Andersen, advisors, assisted them in their activities, which included acting or helping with the Senior Play, The Evening of Plays, and the Junior Play.

Officers for the year were as follows: president, Jill O'Hara; vice president, Tamara Hopkins; secretary, Julie Leonard; treasurer, Mike Rice; and clerk, Linda Keller.

Y-Teens promoted friendly relations

The annual Belle Ball was the big success of the Christmas season for the Y-Teens. The theme was Moonlight Magic. The Blue Knights of Kane entertained the couples dancing under a ceiling of silver and blue. Extensive work on the part of the Y-Teens produced a lovely atmosphere.

At the beginning of the Yule-tide season, Y-Teens, joining with adult Y. W. C. A. members, sang Christmas carols and participated in the Hanging of the Greens. A tureen dinner completed a fun-filled evening.

The purpose of this organization was to create an everlasting friendship among all girls, to better their character and personal traits, and to help others while increasing their respect and devotion toward God. With this in mind, their first service project was to make and take favors to lonely patients at the Warren State Hospital.

This year was the golden anniversary of the Young Women's Christian Association. At the annual meeting and dinner of all Y. W. C. A. organizations the Senior Y-Teens presented part of the program.

A conducted trip to the Ice Capades in Buffalo was an outstanding event of the year. The members traveled by bus, leaving Warren early Saturday morning and returning after dinner.

In the spring came the Mother and Daughter Banquet to which the proud members brought their mothers for a lovely dinner and entertainment.

In order to alleviate the financial situation, the Y-Teens conducted several sales of various merchandise. The girls held a pumpkin sale on the Grant Store premises. Sponsoring a Cookie Bake at the Y. W. C. A., the girls distributed cookies to those who had ordered them.

Officers for 1962-63 were as follows: president, Priscilla Zastawney; vice president, Gerry Lanman; secretary, Molly Rosenquist; treasurer, Ellen Gilfillan; director, Barbara Jean Vail.

Y-Teen members practiced songs in preparation for the St. Patrick's Day Party at the Warren State Hospital.

In the first meeting of the year, Priscilla Zastawney, president, and members of the Y-Teens outlined plans for an active year.

The Rifle Club aimed for a perfect trip.

Girls as well as boys took their places on the firing line to compete in Rifle Club activities.

To give instruction in safe handling of firearm and ammunition and to develop skill in marksmanship were the aims of the Rifle Club. With this purpose in mind, fifty-six members of this competitive sport met for practice Wednesday and Thursday each week during the seventh period and after school.

Enjoying the fine facilities of the high school rifle range, riflemen fired in prone, kneeling, sitting and standing positions from a distance of fifty feet.

Matches took place with Jamestown, Kane, Clearfield, Emporium, and Meadville during the year. In February Warren shooters lost a very close shoulder-to-shoulder match with Jamestown on the Warren range. Seven young men and women from Jamestown and nine from Warren participated in the ten shots prone and ten shots standing course of fire. The four high scores constituted the team score.

Two teams participated in the National Match in the spring.

Mr. Carlson was the competent advisor, Michael Morell served as president, and Lois Hendrickson was secretary.

The nineteen members of the Russian Club endeavored to obtain a more complete understanding of the Russian culture and of the Russian people through a comprehensive study of the native language.

The highlight of the social activities of the Russian Club was a banquet, held on March 14 in the homemaking room. The main course featured a much enjoyed, authentic Russian dish, beef stroganoff. Following a delicious dinner, the guest of honor, the Reverend William W. Keys, of the Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, presented a very interesting program. Reverend Keys showed slides and discussed some of the experiences which he had and some of the observations which he made while conducting a youth group through Russia.

The officers elected to preside over the Russian Club activities included Linda Werner, president; Marcia Highhouse, vice president; Mary Cashman, secretary; and William Eldridge, treasurer. Mr. Stachowiak was advisor of the club.

Enthusiastic Russian Club members entertained their guest, the Reverend Keys, at a delicious dinner, featuring beef stroganoff.

Latin Club pursued Roman culture.

Members of the Latin Club waited patiently as President Dahler checked the list of members before issuing membership cards.

The members of the Latin Club promoted many projects which created a greater appreciation of ancient Roman culture and civilization. Meetings held on the third Tuesday of each month began with an enjoyable tureen dinner. Programs featuring Roman themes brought interest and life to the group.

At one meeting Roberto Masi, the exchange student from Rome, Italy, spoke to the club about his native city.

Mr. Stachowiak, who spent six weeks in Russia last summer, spoke to the club and showed slides of that interesting foreign country.

The most anticipated event of the year was the annual Latin Club banquet, held on April 23. Students attended the banquet garbed in togas and tunics similar to those worn by the ancient Romans. The program included an original skit.

A spring picnic concluded the year's festivities. Officers for the year included David Dahler, president; Kopp Michelotti, vice president; Jean Laurence, secretary; and John Laurence, treasurer. Mr. Stachowiak was the advisor.

The exhibition area provided a cheery atmosphere for the Latin Club monthly meetings.

French Club enjoyed a Romance language.

Members of the French Club energetically decorated the exhibition area for a spring dance, sponsored by the club.

The French Club under the supervision of Mr. Mucha enjoyed a very active and profitable year. The purpose of the club was to promote activities in a French atmosphere and to learn more of French culture and life. Seventy-three students from both French grammar classes and intermediate French classes comprised the club. These students voted to create an executive board consisting of the officers and a representative from each class. This board presided over the general meeting each month and planned activities in which all members participated.

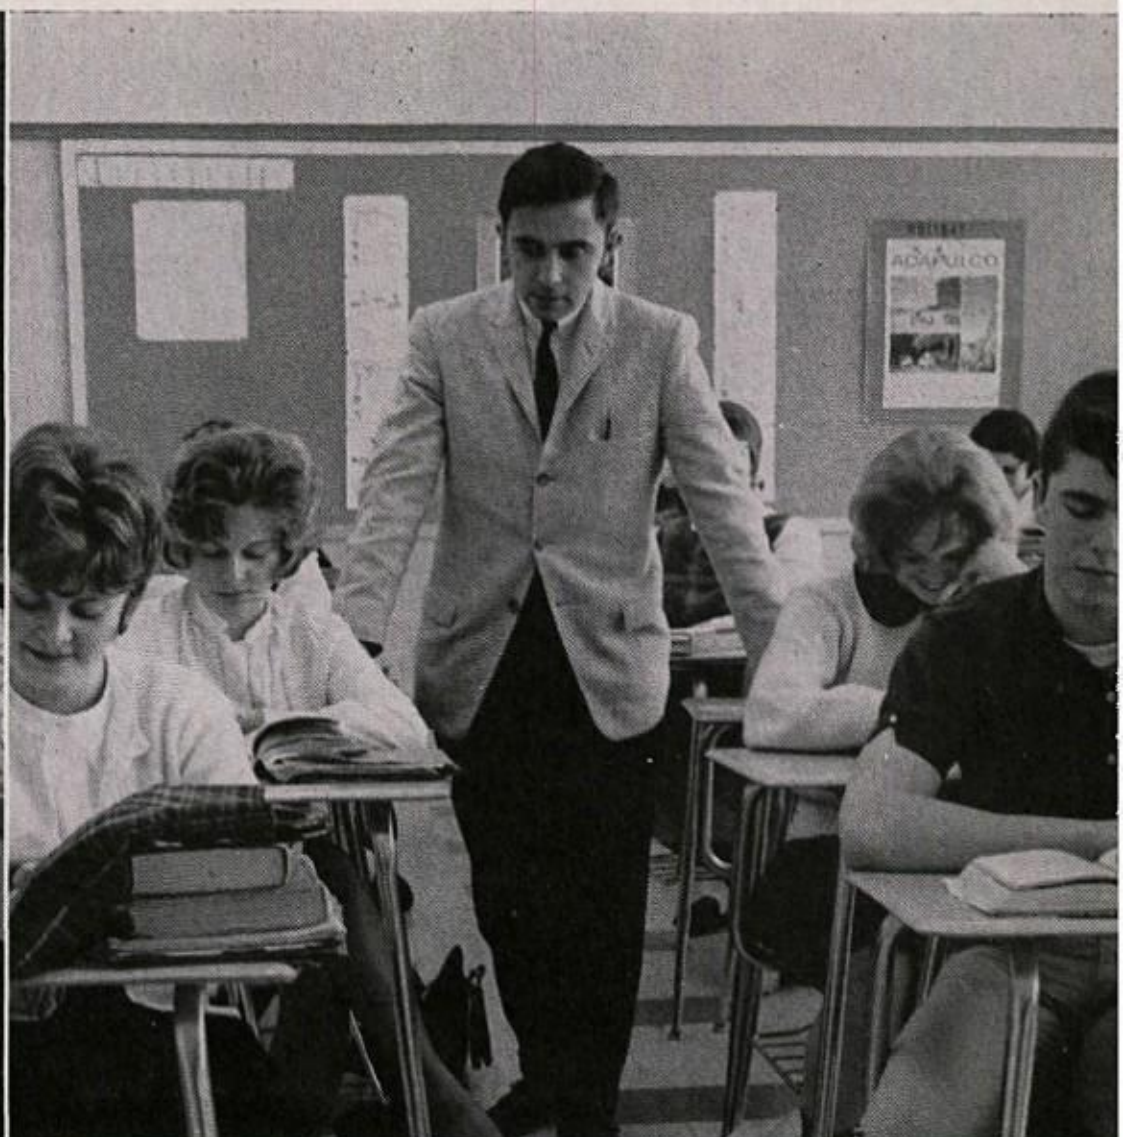

In December the French Club sponsored a Christmas banquet for interested members. Following the dinner Mr. Mutzabaugh showed slides of his trip to France. Besides providing interesting entertainment for the evening the slides supplemented a film on France, shown in class. The club members then sang French songs, taught them by Mr. Mucha, and closed with the French national anthem, "La Marseillaise."

In the middle of February the club had a cookie and candy sale to earn money for the annual picnic. The picnic, held at Chapman Dam in late spring, climaxed the activities for the club members.

The officers for the year were as follows: co-president George Loranger and Charles Foster, and secretary, Jerry Lauffenberger.

George Loranger led an interesting discussion in anticipation of the outstanding French Club social event of the year.

Mr. Mucha supervised reading of French literature.

Spanish Club introduced colorful Spanish customs.

Spanish Club members anxiously compared their scores as the bowling party progressed.

In an effort to create friendlier relations with our Spanish-speaking neighbors, the Spanish Club members, totaling about seventy-five students, became acquainted with many of the Spanish customs and skills as well as the Spanish literature. As a result Spanish students learned to appreciate their study of the Spanish language.

Among the activities of the year, the club conducted a record sale early in February, which proved to be interesting as well as financially profitable. Donating used records, students later sold them in the lobby after school. Proceeds from the sale went into the treasury to finance future Spanish Club activities.

In March the Spanish Club members enjoyed an after-school bowling party at the Riverside Lanes in Warren.

Spanish Club officers who served for the year were David Lundahl, president; Betty Jo Henry, vice president; Nancy Rich, treasurer; Eileen Swanson, secretary; and Carol Martin, parliamentarian. Mr. Barry was the club advisor.

After a fun-filled afternoon of bowling, Spanish Club members thoroughly enjoyed refreshments.

Spanish Club officers, Dave Lundahl, Eileen Swanson, Betty Jo Henry, and Nancy Rich, began an enjoyable afternoon of bowling at the Riverside Lanes.

German Club officers conferred with Mr. Kauffman and Mr. Green regarding significant activities of the club.

Tourists participated in German festivities.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Kauffman and Mr. Green, the German Club afforded an opportunity for students to gather socially outside of the classroom, to sing, and to experience special phases of German culture. This year approximately three hundred students participated in the activities of Der Gemutliche Verein.

The officers for the year included Charles Lucia, co-president; Barbara Nelson, co-president; Cecelia Musante, secretary; and James Peterson, treasurer.

The annual Christmas banquet featured a delicious fourteen dinner. Following the dinner members exchanged humorous gifts, participated in a rousing song fest, and enjoyed the extra gaiety provided by the colorful German band.

A much enjoyed spring picnic climaxed the activities of the German Club for the year.

The German Club committee chairmen met to discuss plans for their annual picnic.

The pep assembly before the Jamestown football game displayed the Pep Club work.

The Pep Club stimulated tour spirit.

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: President, Susan Curtis; Vice President, Susan Anderson; Secretary, Patricia Anderson; Treasurer, Nancy Wert.

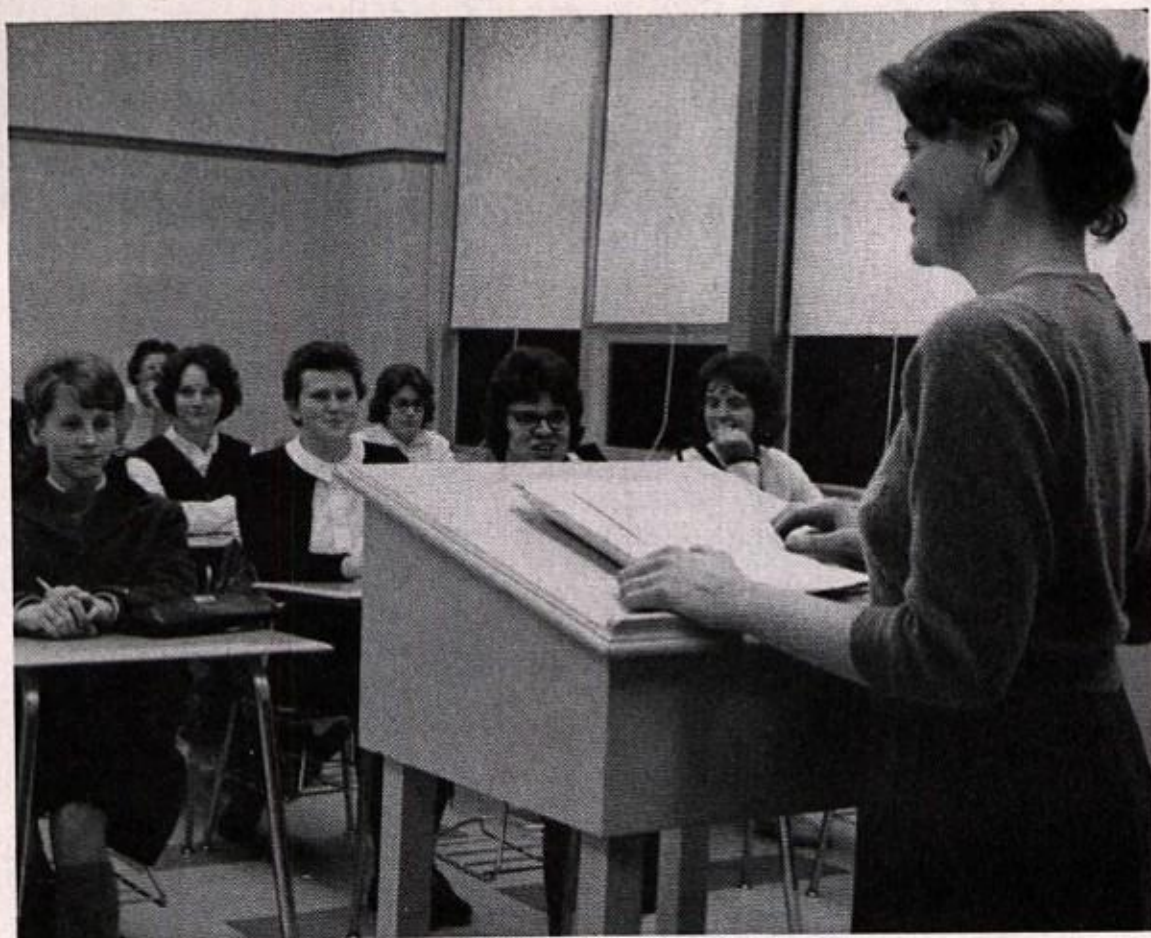

Enthusiasm and vigor characterized the Pep Club. The main purpose of this animated club was to arouse school spirit at athletic events and to boost the morale of the Dragon teams.

Working hard and enthusiastically, the members of the club boasted a long list of accomplishments for the year. They worked diligently to draw signs and make posters, participated eagerly in all pep rallies, and encouraged the student body to occupy the blue and white booster section, provided by the Student Council in the gymnasium.

For one of their projects of the year, the club provided financial aid for the junior cheerleaders to attend a special summer training camp. To defray expenses the girls checked hats and coats at home games.

Officers were Sue Curtis, president; Sue Anderson, vice president; Patricia Anderson, secretary; Nancy Wert, treasurer; and Miss Moran, advisor.

Margaret Shaffer, president, and the F. T. A. members elected delegates for the Harrisburg Convention.

The Future Teachers of America, which met on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, endeavored to help interested students obtain a clearer understanding of the teaching profession. Twice during the year each F. T. A. member visited an area school to observe teaching methods at different grade levels. Periodically, the students presented radio broadcasts geared to attract the interest of elementary school children. In February the members enjoyed an interesting and worthwhile talk given by Dr. Simkins on the qualities of a prospective teacher.

Mrs. Andersen and Mr. Bidwell were advisors for the student club.

The officers for the year were as follows: president, Margaret Shaffer; vice president, Jerry Summers; secretary, Helen Ullrich; and treasurer, Daniel Greco.

F. T. A. planned for future tours.

To discuss plans for a district meeting, Mrs. Andersen, advisor, met with F. T. A. Club officers: Daniel Greco, Treasurer; Helen Ullrich, Secretary; Jerry Summers, Vice President; and Margaret Shaffer, President.

Students enrolled in any business course were eligible for membership in the Future Business Leaders of America. The local chapter aimed to develop business leadership and to create a better understanding of business occupations.

With Mr. Miller and Mr. Mullen as advisors, the club was successful in many projects including the annual Junior Red Cross drive, the sale of Dragon stationery, bake sales, and a record hop. At Christmas time, F. B. L. A. donated clothes and other articles to a needy family.

W. A. H. S. was host for the Fall Regional Convention, and several Warren students attended the Regional Convention at Union City in April.

Mr. Miller and Mr. Mullen, advisors of F. B. L. A., helped Mary Martin, president, and Deanne Reiff, vice president, to choose the design of the stationery for the next sale.

F. B. L. A. instilled better business practices.

Second Row—Heidi Hetesi, Kristen Ericsson, Linda Peterson, Karen Werlin, Kathleen Tipton, Julie Leonard, Sharyn Stone, Mrs. McClure, advisor.

Stenographers' Club kept a log of the tour.

Members of the Stenographers' Club sponsored a special Christmas project for the patients of the Warren State Hospital.

Combining a social hour with business, the Stenographers' Club with Mrs. McClure as advisor held monthly meetings. The sixteen members represented senior girls in second year shorthand and transcription classes. The club aimed to give its members an insight into the skills and accomplishments of a successful office secretary. Representatives from several Warren business offices were guests of the club and spoke informatively concerning office requirements.

The main project concerned providing gifts for State Hospital patients. The club adopted a patient and contributed gifts to her during the year. At Christmas time the stenographers gave the entire school an opportunity to participate in this worthwhile endeavor. After the collection of money and gifts in home rooms, the Stenographers' Club wrapped and presented gifts to State Hospital patients who might not otherwise have received Christmas remembrance.

 Second Row—Miss Nelson, advisor, Barbara Campbell, JoEllen Bailor, Linda Repine, Linda Parker, Betty Jean Snow, Louise Kusio, Joan Farrell, Patricia Hagerman.
 Third Row—Patricia Anderson, Kristy Lord, Anna Echelmeyer, Joyce Erickson, Susan Larson, Sally Martin, Delores Gerard, Diane Beckett.
 Fourth Row—Karen Anderson, Josephine Gerardi, Jane Book, Joyce Andrews, Linda Esterbrook, Linda Farrell, Susan Anderson, Paula Burgess.

F. H. A. stressed better homemaking.

At the Warren County meeting of Future Homemakers of America, Miss Chase and Patricia Hagerman represented W. A. H. S.

The motto, "Towards New Horizons," served as a constant challenge to the thirty girls who participated in the Future Homemakers of America, a national organization. This club endeavored to promote a better understanding of home, school, and community life and the part which a future homemaker plays in it.

The red rose represented the search for beauty in everyday living. The F. H. A. colors, red suggesting strength and white symbolizing sincerity, inspired members with the courage and determination to succeed.

Events highlighting the year included the annual Christmas bazaar and bake sale, a Parent-Daughter banquet, a reception for Miss Chase, and a dinner entertaining various county chapters.

The officers included Patricia Anderson, president; Susan Anderson, vice president; Barbara Campbell, treasurer; and Rita Harrison, historian. Miss Doris Nelson and Miss Daphne Chase served as sponsors.

Front Row—Nancy Sampson, Martha Miller, Kathryn Gnagey, Lynda Ahlgren, Diane Howe, Kathleen Connolly, Deanne Reiff, Harriet Berenfield, Molly Oriole, Patricia Oriole, Francine Frits.
 Second Row—Robert Rice, Mary Moore, Jan Schneck, Heidi Link, Lana Anderson, John Kiser, Patricia Alexander, Linda McDonald, Kathleen McNamara, Christopher Keys.
 Third Row—Lynn Greenwood, Judith Clepper, Gloria Nelson, Mark Honhart, Lyle Slack, Cecelia Musante, Cindy Johanson, Janet Friedrich.

Dragonette Staff reported tour events.

John Kiser, editor, and Robert Rice, news editor, scanned new material for the next issue of the DRAGONETTE.

The DRAGONETTE Staff, composed of approximately sixty-five students, published seven interesting and informative issues of the school newspaper, the DRAGONETTE.

Part of the staff met every day during the seven-week period to work on the publication. The entire staff also held occasional meetings after school. Different departments of the paper included city, society, editorial, sports, features, and personal columns.

Mr. Barry was the literary advisor for the DRAGONETTE, while Mrs. McClure supervised the typing and mimeographing, which girls in the business department handled.

Activities sponsored by the staff included a mid-winter bowling party and a spring banquet.

Four representatives from the DRAGONETTE Staff visited Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, to observe various forms of newspaper production.

Besides providing the student body with accurate and up-to-date news, the staff endeavored to promote school unity, to awaken school spirit, and to develop good techniques of journalism.

Mr. Barry checked the staff list with Lodusky Hollabaugh and John Smith, editors.

Lodusky Hollabaugh, Patricia Richwalsky, and Sandra Osborne prepared the final format for the DRAGONETTE.

 Second Row—Mr. Barry, Advisor, Linda Smith, Roberta Linder, Polly Parsons, Lodusky Hollabaugh, Patricia Richwalsky, Suzanne Monahan, Eileen Swanson, Linda Dahlberg.
 Third Row—Sandra Freund, Lynora Glass, Christina Sandblade, Susan Albaugh, Sandra Osborne, Karen Briggs, Grace Gross, Nancy Niederer, Darlene Pusateri, Patsy Loranger.

Utilizing their artistic ability, Susan Slick and Sally Davis designed attractive posters to promote DRAGON sales.

Meeting during the seventh period each day, the thirteen members of the DRAGON Business Board and their advisor, Mr. Edward Miller, assumed the responsibility of raising the necessary funds and of managing the financial affairs for the production of the 1963 DRAGON. The group divided their attention among solicitations, concessions, and book sales.

Members of the solicitations committee, Marcia Highhouse, Lynda Ahlgren, Priscilla Zastawney, Barbara Towne, Lee Ritchie, Patricia Hagerman, Constance Mealy, Susan Slick, Sarah Davis, Barbara Zaffino, Sharon Johnson, and Deanne Reiff, spent many hours procuring donations from more than three hundred local merchants, businessmen, and other patrons.

To supplement these funds, Vincent Faga and Patricia Hagerman supervised the sale of concessions at home football and basketball games and at home wrestling matches.

Barbara Zaffino, Priscilla Zastawney, and Vincent Faga directed the homeroom yearbook sales.

The DRAGON Business Board deserved commendation for the many efforts which they employed to complete a tedious but essential task.

 Standing—Judith Feldman, David Jones, David Lundahl, Michael Rice, Martha Gannoe, Anne Sommers, Susan Hultman, Karlene Curtis, Miss Hurd, advisor, Jerome Harris, Pamela Duncan, Thomas Lindberg.

The DRAGON Editorial Staff compiled souvenir book.

Anne Sommers capably served as typist for the Board of Editors.

Tom Lindberg and Jessica Smith, staff artists, produced many clever and highly imaginative sketches.

To preserve memorable events of the trip around W. A. H. S. in One Hundred Eighty-five Days, Jerry Harris and Andrew Potter composed many captions.

To create a pleasing page arrangement, David Jones, Karlene Curtis, and David Lundahl calculated proportions for DRAGON pictures.

Composing write-ups and captions proved to be a laborious task.

After their appointment, the Dragon Staff began early in June to make plans for the 1963 yearbook. They decided on the theme and proceeded to draw the layout for the book after making contacts with the printer, the engraver, the cover contractor, and the photographers. By the time school began, work had progressed to an advantageous point for the Dragon Staff.

According to tradition, the 1963 Staff recorded data in pictures and copy and preserved treasured events and happenings. During the first three weeks of September, seniors visited the photographers for their portraits. The sophomores, juniors, and clubs posed for their pictures. The entire staff painstakingly compiled senior statistics, identified groups, and wrote captions for snapshots.

Planning and measuring pictures and compiling writeups required much time and effort. The art editors with pens, pencils, and erasers produced the art decorating the book.

Mike Rice and Mr. Mahan, who substituted for Mr. Stoke during the second semester, decided on the schedule and the requirements for some of the yearbook pictures.

The members of the DRAGON Business Board wish to express their sincere thanks for the fine support and encouragement which they received from the businessmen and other interested persons who have helped to make this yearbook possible.

Acknowledgments

We wish to express our thanks to the students, the faculty, the administration, and to all those who have contributed their time and effort to make the publication of the 1963 DRAGON possible. We greatly appreciate the advice of Miss Hurd, literary advisor, Mr. Passaro, principal, and Mr. Miller, business advisor. We are greatly indebted to Mr. Zimmerman of the Zimmerman Engraving Company, to Mr. Berdine and sons of the Keystone Printing Company, and to Mr. Ridgway of Kurtz Brothers. We are grateful to Mr. Stoke of Stoke's Studio, to Mr. Mahan, and Provine Studio for their excellent photography, to the Warren Bank and Trust Company for the use of their pictures, to the staffs of the WARREN COUNTY OBSERVER and the WARREN TIMES-MIRROR for their help and cooperation. We sincerely thank all those who have helped in any way to preserve this year in its spirit and reality as we knew it.

Jimmy, never forget all the fun we had in good old Biology class and the help you gave me
 when we were (ugh) cutting up frogs. Be good this summer. I'll see you at the dance.
 Fuck always,
 Julie

James?
 I had a lot of fun with you! HAVE A GREAT
 SUMMER!
 Remember the fun we had in Miedenseeher!

Jim
 Always remember the fun (at times)
 we had in biology this year.
 Hope to see you around lots
 next year!
 Fuck always
 Garollee

Jim,

Best of luck always to a great buddy.
Never forget the good times in lunch.
Never forget East St. and the "fine" over the ages." Be good this summer, but not too good! Be careful, but not too careful. I hope to see you at the dorm + at dances alot, you know. Stay as cute + sharp as you are.

Love ya,
Karen.
